Hauptmann Silently Waits

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—With the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby adjourned until Monday, the sensation-ridden town of Flemington today took on a semblance of normalcy.

Gone were the crowds which have infested Main street and congregated in front of the Hunterdon county courthouse day after day since the trial started. Newsreel trucks were off the streets and parked in garages, the army of photographers had taken to playing poker and other pursuits, and the incessant clicking of typewriters and telegraph instruments in the courthouse had died down.

The sheriff and his deputies, however, were preparing for a great influx of visitors tomorrow—the Sunday motorists who will flock here by the thousands to get a peek at the courthouse where the trial is being held and at the jail where Hauptmann, the most discussed man in the country, is quartered. Last Sunday 50,000 persons came to Flemington.

Hauptmann Is Silent
Hauptmann was spending his time in jail today, maintaining his tight-lipped silence and saying hardly anything to his guards. He is the most uncommunicative prisoner the local jail has ever quartered. He has seemed even more morose than ever the last few days, and the authorities are keeping the closest watch against the possibility of a

PA NEW OBSERVES

Evidently the Department of Highways is discontinuing the issue of a Detour Bulletin for a time. Notice of changes in detours was received today by The News, for the period ending January 31, which supplants the regular printed detour bulletin. Two new detours are added and five removed, all in the eastern part of the state.

Dear Pa News
To the "Taxidermist" who wrote the squib in your column Friday night about the Cardinals of Oak Park cemetery, I might say that the Cardinals are birds that will stay in jail all the year round when conditions are favorable for them, and the reason is that they are getting sufficient food and shelter to hold them. In the winter time the grey squirrels will come out of their dens to feed when they are hungry, as they do not hibernate. The Robins and Cardinals that have been reported here during the winter, not migrating at all. Thanks Mr. Taxidermist for your interest in bird life.

Library Is Not Owner Of New Building Site, Says Member Of Board

That the members of the city council have been misinformed as to the rights of the city to the Clendenin property at the corner of North Mercer and Falls street for possible future use as a public library, is the opinion of Attorney William J. Caldwell, a member of the Library Board of Trustees, expressed in a statement today.

"I do not think," said Mr. Caldwell, "that any person who cares to inform himself by reading the will of Wells B. Clendenin will thereafter make any rash statements that the Library is the owner or that it will ever become the owner of the Falls street property."

"The will is too long to quote. It is recorded in Will Book Volume 12 at page 231 and any person who is interested can read it. It contains a veritable maze of hopes and conditions. FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—"Let 'em come!" Glaring and flet-eyed an old courthouse attache stood at his post today and gave Flemington voice in its latest dilemma—the Sunday sightseeing influx.

Last week, Flemington stood aghast and peeked giggling through its curtains as thousands of automobiles blocked all roads and a "line forms to the left" sign hurriedly done by local sign painter, was tacked on the courthouse.

This week the "line forms to the left" sign is down. And it won't be put up.

"No, sir," the old man said. "There are three of us going to be there—and not one of 'em is going to get in."

NOT ANTICIPATED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Delay in the decision of the supreme court on constitutionality of the congressional act abrogating the gold clause in bonds was forecast by legal observers here today.

The gravity of the issue, involving staggering sums and the entire Roosevelt gold policy, and the consequences of a decision adverse to the government, is expected to cause the court to take more than its usual time in reaching a decision.

While the high court held the old production section of NIRA unconstitutional a month after the cases were argued, and the court has in the last few years established a record for speedy decisions, the same procedure is not expected in the gold issue before the court.

Three Are Killed In Mexican Clash

(International News Service)
MEXICAN CITY, Jan. 12.—Three persons fell dead and more than a score were seriously wounded today in the shadow of the capital as Catholics, enraged over the detention of their parish priest, clashed with police in a new bloody chapter in Mexico's church war.

The battle occurred before the church of Espiritu Santo in the suburb of Tacubaya. After the first encounter, in which most of the casualties were incurred, a group of about 50 Catholics barricaded themselves within the church and continued to exchange shots with the police outside.

Mrs. Harold Smith, of Stephen Hill, Beaver Falls, is ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson, of South Ray street.

Ground At Old Post Office
Is To Be Closed To Parking

SOME CARS ARE
PARKED ON LAWN

The public will not be permitted to use the old post office yard and driveways as a parking ground for automobiles much longer, it became known today.

Since activity around the old building ceased with the opening of the federal building on the diamond, car owners have been using the lot as a parking space and the government has said nothing. But government regulations, Postmaster Richard A. Steen announced today, forbid it and within a short time the entrances will be barred. It will be closed to automobiles.

Postmaster Steen, the property's custodian, said some damage was done to the post office lawn when the ground was soft during the recent warm spell and also reported that "post office trucks couldn't get into the lot the other day because parked cars blocked the way."

Mr. Steen was asked if part of the space could be kept open for parking. He replied that all of the ground must be closed.

For curious passersby who may have seen several windows in the old building wide open today, Postmaster Steen explained that the building was "sweating." It was a condition created by interior and exterior temperatures.

Mrs. Harold Smith, of Stephen Hill, Beaver Falls, is ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson, of South Ray street.

OAKLAND AIRPORT, Cal., Jan. 12.—Within easy striking distance of the Pacific coast, Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, famed aviatrix, today apparently was successfully completing the last leg of her 2,400-mile solo aerial jaunt from Hawaii.

Thirteen hours after Mrs. Putnam took off from Wheeler Field she informed listeners over her radio telephone that she was flying through scattered clouds at a height of 5,000 feet. She did not give her position, which she had not done through the night, but she added the same "everything okay" that she sent in previous messages.

Flying Solo
Airport, Oakland, Cal., Jan. 12.—Racing into the dawn and almost in sight of her goal, Amelia Earhart Putnam today was within a few hours of adding to her long list of accomplishments that of being the first person to fly "solo" from the Hawaiian Islands to the mainland.

The noted aviatrix reported at 5:45 a. m. (PST) she was flying at 8,000 feet, in overcast skies, but that everything was "O.K."

At that time she was ten and a half hours out of Honolulu on her thrilling 2,400-mile great circle hop—grazing that she is heading for the Oakland airport—and about five hours from the coast.

At least that was the result of airport attendants' computations, which placed her 1,650 miles east of Honolulu and 750 miles west of California.

Tests with a pump at the new well which county commissioners have had drilled at the county home indicate that it will furnish an abundant water supply. The pump was worked continuously for two hours during which water was taken out at the rate of 2,000 gallons per hour. The well is about 341 feet deep. Water rose to a distance of 200 feet in the well, and continued at about the same level—bills the pump was being worked. The water cleared up nicely and is said to be excellent.

Gets Place On Rivers And Harbors Committee For Congress Session

Congressman Charles R. Eckert, representing this 26th district, will serve on the Rivers and Harbors committee in the present session of congress. Along with the other Pennsylvania Democratic congressmen's assignments, that of Mr. Eckert was made public today.

The appointment to this important committee fulfills a desire expressed by him in the campaign. At that time he expressed his enthusiastic support for the proposed Beaver-Mahoning canal and action towards getting this through the Rivers and Harbors committee.

In the battle between Representative Berlin of Westmoreland and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, the congressman came out second best. Berlin wanted placed on the important Rules committee and Guffey turned thumbs down on the idea. The placing shows that Berlin was named on the committee on Mining, Education and Mines and the local tendermerie co-operated to maintain order during the fateful balloting to determine whether the Saar territory will be returned to Germany, given to France, or maintained under the present league jurisdiction as during the past 14 years.

To the "Taxidermist," who wrote the squib in your column Friday night about the Cardinals of Oak Park cemetery, I might say that the Cardinals are birds that will stay in conditions the year round when conditions are favorable for them, and the reason is that they are getting sufficient food and shelter to hold them. Hauptmann Silently Waits
For Resumption Of Trial
On Monday

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—With the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby adjourned until Monday, the sensation-ridden town of Flemington today took on a semblance of normalcy.

Gone were the crowds which have infested Main street and congregated in front of the Hunterdon county courthouse day after day since the trial started. Newsreel trucks were off the streets and parked in garages, the army of photographers had taken to playing poker and other pursuits, and the incessant clicking of typewriters and telegraph instruments in the courthouse had died down.

The sheriff and his deputies, however, were preparing for a great influx of visitors tomorrow—the Sunday motorists who will flock here by the thousands to get a peek at the courthouse where the trial is being held and at the jail where Hauptmann, the most discussed man in the country, is quarantined. Last Sunday 50,000 persons came to Flemington.

Hauptmann Is Silent

Hauptmann was spending his time in jail today, maintaining his tight-lipped silence and saying hardly anything to his guards. He is the most uncommunicative prisoner the local jail has ever housed. He has seemed even more morose than ever the last few days, and the authorities are keeping the closest watch against the possibility of a

Library Is Not Owner Of New Building Site, Says Member Of Board

That the members of the city council have been misinformed as to the rights of the city to the Clendenin property at the corner of North Mercer and Falls street for possible future use as a public library, is the opinion of Attorney William J. Caldwell, a member of the Library Board of Trustees, expressed in a statement today.

"I do not think," said Mr. Caldwell, "that any person who cares to inform himself by reading the will of Wells B. Clendenin will thereafter make any rash statements that the Library is the owner or that it will ever become the owner of the Falls street property."

"The will is too long to quote. It is recorded in Will Book Volume 12 at page 231 and any person who is interested can read it. It contains a veritable maze of hopes and conditions. In substance it expresses the hope that following the death of several of his relatives that the proceeds of his one-third interest in the Clendenin block be used by his personal representatives to erect a 'Clendenin Library and Art Gallery' (Continued On Page Two)

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—"Let 'em come!" Glaring and fiery-eyed an old courthouse attache stood at his post today and gave Flemington voice in its latest dilemma—the Sunday sight seeing influx.

Last week, Flemington stood aghast and peeked, giggling through its curtains as thousands of automobiles blocked all roads and a "line forms to the left" sign hurriedly done by local sign painter, was tacked on the courthouse.

This week the "line forms to the left" sign is down. And it won't be put up.

"No, sir," the old man said. "There are three of us going to be there—and not one of 'em is going to get in."

One of his cronies shambled up.

"Have that all over again?" he asked. "Why, it'll kill us."

NOT ANTICIPATED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Delay in the decision of the supreme court on constitutionality of the congressional act abrogating the gold clause in bonds was forecast by legal observers here today.

The gravity of the issue, involving staggering sums and the entire Roosevelt gold policy, and the vast consequences of a decision adverse to the government, is expected to cause the court to take more than its usual time in reaching a decision.

While the high court held the old production section of NIRA unconstitutional a month after the cases were argued, and the court has in the last few years established a record for speedy decisions, the same procedure is not expected in the gold issue before the court.

MEXICAN CITY, Jan. 12.—Three persons fell dead and more than a score were seriously wounded today in the shadow of the capital as Catholics, enraged over the detention of their parish priest, clashed with police in a new bloody chapter in Mexico's church war.

The battle occurred before the church of Espiritu Santo in the suburb of Tacubaya. After the first encounter, in which most of the casualties were incurred, a group of about 50 Catholics barricaded themselves within the church and continued to exchange shots with the police outside.

Ground At Old Post Office
Is To Be Closed To Parking

SOME CARS ARE
PARKED ON LAWN

The public will not be permitted to use the old post office yard and driveways as a parking ground for automobiles much longer, it became known today.

Since activity around the old building ceased with the opening of the federal building on the diamond, car owners have been using the lot as a parking space and the government has said nothing. But government regulations, Postmaster Richard A. Steen announced today, forbid it and within a short time the entrances will be barred. It will be closed to automobiles.

Postmaster Steen, the property's custodian, said some damage was done to the post office lawn when the ground was soft during the recent warm spell and also reported that "post office trucks couldn't get into the lot the other day because parked cars blocked the way."

Mr. Steen was asked if part of the space could be kept open for parking. He replied that all of the ground must be closed.

For curious passersby who may have seen several windows in the old building wide open today, Postmaster Steen explained that the building was "sweating." It was a condition created by interior and exterior temperatures.

SAARBRÜCKEN, Jan. 12.—Saarbrücken was virtually under martial law today as the hour of tomorrow's plebiscite neared.

The four-power, international army acting under the League of Nations, the international police force, and the local gendarmerie co-operated to maintain order during the heightening tension on the eve of the fateful balloting to determine whether the Saar territory will be returned to Germany, given to France, or maintained under the present league jurisdiction as during the past 14 years.

OAKLAND AIRPORT, Cal., Jan. 12.—Within easy striking distance of the Pacific coast, Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, famed aviatrix, today apparently was successfully completing the last leg of her 2,400-mile solo aerial jaunt from Hawaii.

Thirteen hours after Mrs. Putnam took off from Wheeler Field she informed listeners over her radio telephone that she was flying through scattered clouds at a height of 5,000 feet. She did not give her position, which she had not done through the night, but she added the same "everything okay" that she sent in previous messages.

Flying Solo

Airport, Oakland, Cal., Jan. 12.—Racing into the dawn and almost in sight of her goal, Amelia Earhart Putnam today was within a few hours of adding to her long list of accomplishments that of being the first person to fly "solo" from the Hawaiian Islands to the mainland.

The noted aviatrix reported at 5:45 a. m. (PST) she was flying at 8,000 feet, in overcast skies, but that everything was "OK."

At that time she was ten and a half hours out of Honolulu on her thrilling 2400-mile great circle hop—granting that she is heading for the Oakland airport—and about five hours from the coast.

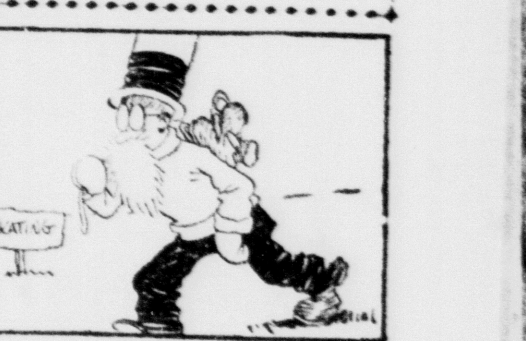

At least that was the result of airport attendants' computations, which placed her 1,650 miles west of Honolulu and 750 miles west of California.

New Water Well At County Home Makes 2000 Gal. Per Hour

Tests with a pump at the new well which county commissioners have had drilled at the county home indicate that it will furnish an abundant water supply. The pump was worked continuously for two hours during which water was taken out at the rate of 2,000 gallons per hour. The well is about 341 feet deep. Water rose to a distance of 200 feet in the well, and continued at about the same level while the pump was being worked. The water cleared up nicely and is said to be excellent.

As a rule for every day, in the winter I must say, that I cannot sing much music for the snow, but when ice is thick and fast, like a shiny looking glass, then I feel the urge to get some skates and go, to a pond or to a lake, where the sharpened runners break through the ice as on the skaters slip and glide, though I must confess to you there are things I'd like to do, that would make a skating party more a ride. Say a car with skates below that would work on ice or snow, would be sport enough it rather seems to me, for I like my comfort too, when there's sporting things to do, weather's dropping and today it's thirty three.

Jury Of Two Women And Ten Men Hearing Evidence In Case

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—Details of the horror of the Kelayres election eve massacre vividly sketched for them by a woman witness, a jury of two women and ten men today heard more of the testimony by which the commonwealth seeks to send Joseph J. Bruno to the electric chair for the deaths of five men. Before the jury the commonwealth had on exhibit a small arsenal of weapons found in the Bruno home less than an hour after the ambush and pellets taken from the head of Frank Fiorella, 65, for whose death Bruno was being brought to trial.

Woman Testifies

The first of the prosecution's eye-witnesses to take the stand was Mrs. Mary Krensvage, a bystander at the night when a parade of Democratic supporters was moved down upon approaching the Bruno home in Kelayres. In faltering tones she specifically accused members of the Bruno family, including Philip Bruno, a brother of Joseph; Philip's son Arthur, and Tony Orlando, a son-in-law of Joseph, all indicted with the former county detective and Republican leader.

Saw Many Flashses

"Then I seen flashses, many, from where Orlando was," Mrs. Krensvage was unable to make identification of any of the death weapons but she said she was certain she heard shots. "The children were screaming," she said, as the parade broke up in terror under the fusillade.

State Game Farm Being Improved

Although this is ordinarily a quiet season at the Jordan State Game Farm, near Harlansburg, there is a considerable amount of activity in progress. Every day finds a squad of RWD men there, averaging about 16 in number, busily engaged in widening roads and clearing fields on the game farm property. The fields, when cleared of brush and saplings, will be used for propagation purposes next spring. The RWD work has been underway since November. Two thousand ringnecked pheasants are being wintered at the farm and require lean-to shelters and several square meals a day. It is these birds who are responsible for the production of next spring's bumper crop for the relish of Pennsylvania sportsmen.

Up And Down Trips Result In Trip To Police Court For Youngsters

Four coy youngsters, ranging in ages from 9 to 12, held a "pow wow" with Mayor Charles B. Mayne this morning. His honor and the four boys in question met in a most informal manner a few days ago, in a local downtown building, where Mayor Mayne has an apartment on the third floor. Entering the building, his honor decided to reach the third floor by elevator. The mayor greeted the boys on the side of the hoisting mechanism. The machine started towards the main floor and stopped on the second floor. The elevator then commenced to go up again. Again the mayor pressed the button and the same thing occurred. After pressing the button several times, with no better results, Mayor Mayne decided to look into the matter.

and commodity markets as traders saw the possibility of a holding of unconstitutional in the critical questions asked by justices. Government attorneys were optimistic that the court would uphold the abrogation in three cases, which involve the gold clause in bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and the St. Louis & Iron Mountain, now under Missouri Pacific control. A clear majority of the court from the discussion during argument—appeared to believe that congress had the power to declare the gold clauses invalid. It is estimated that more than $50,000,000 in principal of bond issues is involved in these cases, applying to private gold clause bonds. The court appeared to be most critical toward the government's claim that it could substitute paper dollars for gold certificates and could pay a gold clause Liberty bond in an equal amount of dollars. It is the claim of John M. Perry, New York lawyer, in the Liberty bond case, that the government must pay approximately $1,693 for each $1,000 face value bond because of devaluation of the dollar. Although the government said in its brief that over $2,000,000,000 of gold clause government bonds were involved, Chief Justice Hughes drew from attorneys that, as a result of exchange, the amount has been reduced to $12,000,000,000, an adverse ruling thus would cost the government about $8,000,000,000. The high court took the cases under consideration with a "prayer" from Attorney General Cummings to uphold constitutionality. He pointed to the "grave consequences" of an adverse decision.

Found: Why Youths Go To College These Days

(International News Service)
MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 12.—"Why are you going to college?" an inquiring reporter for a University of Montana student publication of Montana asked everyone he met on the campus for several days. The answers for the most part were as expected, such as "to have a good time," to obtain a cultural background, to train for a job, and to have something to do. Among the more unusual replies were the following: "I don't know, I haven't figured it out yet." "To get even a pick and shovel job now, a fellow has to have a college degree." "Because it seemed the only thing to do—and besides, everybody else was going." "I guess to get more or less of a cultural background." "I feel that I am serving time, which seems to be necessary, until I reach an age at which people will take me seriously." "For the broadening influence, personal satisfaction and contacts that a person makes." "I just took it for granted that I would go—and found that I enjoyed it and thought that what little I got out of it is well worth the time and money."

and after its completion he trusts that it will be presented to the City of New Castle. In Remote Future
"The will can only take effect in the remote future and no one can even guess the date. After such date arrives the Clendenin block must be sold, which means that the owners of the other two-thirds of the block must also agree on the price or expensive litigation would ensue. There must then be found a market even at such an agreed price. The proceeds of Mr. Clendenin's interest must then be applied to erect a combined library and art gallery which to say the least is exceedingly doubtful. The personal representatives of Mr. Clendenin must then take it solely upon themselves to plan and erect the combined building. After all these things happen and the structure is all complete it is then to be presented to the city. Prior to such a time the city has no title of any sort to the premises. The will attests Mr. Clendenin's interest in the future welfare of New Castle but certainly offers no solution to the Library's problems."

HEAR WITNESSES IN KELAYRES MASSACRE

Woman Tells Of Shooting Scene

Jury Of Two Women And Ten Men Hearing Evidence In Case

(International News Service)
POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—Details of the horror of the Kelayres election eve massacre vividly sketched for a jury of two women and ten men today heard more of the testimony by which the commonwealth seeks to send Joseph J. Bruno to the electric chair for the deaths of five men. Before the jury the commonwealth had on exhibit a small arsenal of weapons found in the Bruno home, less than an hour after the ambushade and pellets, taken from the head of Frank Fiorella, 65, for whose death Bruno has been brought to trial.

Woman Testifies

The first of the prosecution's eye-witnesses to take the stand was Mrs. Mary Krensvage, a bystander that night when a parade of Democratic marchers was moved down upon approaching the Bruno home in Kelayres.

In faltering tones she specifically accused members of the Bruno family, including Philip Bruno, a brother of Joseph; Philip's son Arthur, and Tony Orlando, a son-in-law of Joseph, all indicted with the former county detective and Republican leader.

Cently directed by Special Prosecutor Albert L. Thomas, Mrs. Krensvage, who said she was standing across the street from the Bruno home, told the thronged and hushed courtroom:

"I seen Philip Bruno's son (Arthur) give Orlando something dark. Orlando stooped down not far from the wall in front of the house."

The parade came down past Joe Bruno's house.

Saw Many Flashes

"Then I seen flashes, many, from where Orlando was."

Mrs. Krensvage was unable to make identification of any of the death weapons but she said she was certain she heard shots.

"The children were screaming," she said, as the parade broke up in terror under the fusillade.

Three women wept in the courtroom as Mrs. Krensvage told her story. One was the white-haired wife of the defendant. The others were the widows of Fiorella and John Galosky, another of the victims.

Mrs. Krensvage was to be cross-examined today.

position, they figured her speed at a little more than 150 miles an hour—cruising speed of her plane—and getting faster as she neared the mainland. Weather bureau reports from ships at sea said Miss Earhart's cabin monoplane was being whipped along by a tail wind.

Her course, which she concealed in her conversations over her two way radio phone, was pretty definitely established by a message from the U. S. S. Ramapo to the effect she was making a bee-line for the Golden Gate when she passed over the ship 1,000 miles out from Honolulu.

All night long, since her takeoff at 7:15 o'clock (PST) that she was reported cheerfully that "everything is o.k."

Leaves Honolulu

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 12.—Only a small crowd, approximately 100 persons, witnessed the perfect takeoff of Amelia Earhart's future in her low-wing monoplane on a daring ocean flight from Hawaii to California.

Not until the last minute did Miss Earhart definitely reveal she would attempt the flight.

At 4:30 p. m., (7 p. m. PST.) the famed aviatrix stepped into the cabin of her plane at Wheeler Field, announcing:

"If I make the takeoff I will continue to Oakland."

She waved to the small crowd, composed chiefly of army aviators, mechanics and a group of reporters who had been kept "on edge" two weeks, ever since Miss Earhart's arrival in the islands and veiled hints she hoped to be the first woman to "solo" from Hawaii to California.

The mile-long runway of the field was rain-soaked. Despite this handicap, the expert aviatrix lifted her heavily fuel-laden monoplane into the air after using almost the entire length.

Miss Earhart's husband, George Putnam, publisher, was among the small crowd to wish Amelia "bon voyage."

tone is going up from the rest of the town. However, the thousands of cars which jammed the roads last week are expected to be almost doubled tomorrow, and Flemington is ready in its quaint little way.

Ready For Boom

The restaurants are all shined up, the pottery factory—which plumed in some nice business last week—has both eyes open, and the boys who hold up the "parking, 25 cents" signs are primed.

A special—and augmented detail of local police and a dozen state police, have been assigned to handle the traffic. Still more, it is expected, will be needed.

Following its surprise of last Sunday, the town today is restless with gleeful expectancy.

Meanwhile, despite adjournment until Monday, the early faithful crowded to the little courthouse once more, hopeful of even a glimpse at the room in which Bruno Richard Hauptmann is being tried.

Throughout the week, visitors have been streaming in, sitting in Lindbergh's chair, mounting the witness stand for a bit of clowning cross-examination, becoming mock judges and looking at the chair occupied by Hauptmann.

No one ever has ventured to sit in Hauptmann's chair, however. When urged, they decline, laughingly, blushing, but firmly.

State Game Farm Being Improved

Although this is ordinarily a quiet season at the Jordan State Game Farm, near Harlansburg, there is a considerable amount of activity in progress.

Every day finds a squad of RWD men there, averaging about 16 in number, busily engaged in widening roads and clearing fields on the game farm property. The fields, when cleared of brush and saplings, will be used for propagation purposes next spring. The RWD work has been underway since November.

Two thousand ringnecked pheasants are being wintered at the farm and require lean-to shelters and several square meals a day. It is these birds who are responsible for the production of next spring's bumper crop for the relish of Pennsylvania sportsmen.

Superintendent V. T. Warfel shipped from the Jordan farm last year about 18,500 pheasants and 24,000 pheasant eggs. The eggs were sent to sportsmen who hatched them under bantam hens and released them. In addition a number of mallard ducks and rabbits were shipped from the farm.

The raising of rabbits is still an experiment at the Jordan farm. As yet no attempt has been made to raise them on a large scale.

Similarly the raising of Reeves pheasants for game purposes is an experiment but may develop into an important part of the propagation farm work if it proves practical.

More Reeves, (125 in all,) were raised at the Jordan farm last year than in any previous year. None were shipped out, however.

Mayor Waits While Boys Take Joyride In Elevator Cage

Up And Down Trips Result In Trip To Police Court For Youngsters

Four coy youngsters, ranging in ages from 9 to 12, held a "pow wow" with Mayor Charles B. Mayne this morning.

His honor and the four boys in question met in a most informal manner a few days ago, in a local downtown building, where Mayor Mayne has an apartment on the third floor.

Entering the building, his honor decided to reach the third floor by elevator. The mayor pressed the button on the side of the hoisting mechanism. The machine started towards the main floor and stopped on the second floor. The elevator then commenced to go up again.

Again the mayor pressed the button, and the same thing occurred. After pressing the button several times, with no better results, Mayor Mayne decided to look into the matter.

Going to the second floor of the building, his honor saw the elevator go up and down. As the elevator reached the second floor, Mayor Mayne quickly opened the door, and to his surprise was greeted by the four youngsters whose complexions changed from a rosy red to white. They were ordered to visit the mayor this morning.

After listening to a most interesting account of the incident, the boys were excused providing they discontinued the practice.

The boys faithfully promised and left police court.

Mayor Mayne stated later that he has received several complaints from proprietors of downtown buildings, "where elevators are operated by persons who desire to use them."

"Elevators are to be used to transport people from one floor to another, not for youngsters to practice to become elevator operators," his honor exclaimed.

covering some parts of the countryside under a four-inch blanket. This was calculated to hinder the army trucks in their collection of the ballot boxes, and possibly to increase the already high tension by impending all troop movements and thus encouraging terrorism.

Italian tanks were held in readiness in the rural districts to transport the ballot boxes.

Several incidents marked a tense eleven-hour tension. Handbill distributors of all factions were openly intimidated, and a Communist bill peddler was shot. Because their parents charged they were being "terrorized" by Nazis, 196 children were removed from French schools.

Members of the German front organization forced numerous Jewish voters to surrender their voting papers, even though they had promised to vote for a return of the Saar to Germany.

ELDER MAKES TRIP SAFELY TO MIAMI

County Commissioner P. O. Elder received a message this morning from his son, Otis B. Elder, saying that he and his companion, Harrison Doyle, of Erie, had arrived safely on their airplane trip from Erie to Miami. The trip was made in 11 hours, including stops for gas. Elder and Doyle expect to do some cruising around the South before returning home.

Found: Why Youths Go To College These Days

(International News Service)
MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 12.—"Why are you going to college?" an inquiring reporter for a University of Montana student publication asked of everyone he met on the campus for several days.

The answers for the most part were as expected, such as "to have a good time; to obtain a cultural background; to train for a job, and to have something to do."

Among the more unusual replies were the following:

"I don't know. I haven't figured it out yet."

"To get even a pick and shovel job now, a fellow has to have a college degree."

"Because it seemed the only thing to do—and besides, everybody else was going."

"I guess to get more or less of a cultural background."

"I feel that I am serving time, which seems to be necessary, until I reach an age at which people will take me seriously."

"For the broadening influence, personal satisfaction and contacts that a person makes."

"I just took it for granted that I would go—and found that I enjoyed it and thought that what little I got out of it is well worth the time and money."

Honolulu, T. H., Jan. 12.—Only a small crowd, approximately 100 persons, witnessed the perfect takeoff of Amelia Earhart Putnam in her low-wing monoplane on a daring ocean flight from Hawaii to California.

Not until the last minute did Miss Earhart definitely reveal she would attempt the flight.

At 4:30 p. m., (7 p. m. PST.) the famed aviatrix stepped into the cabin of her plane at Wheeler Field, announcing:

"If I make the takeoff I will continue to Oakland."

She waved to the small crowd, composed chiefly of army aviators, mechanics and a group of reporters who had been kept "on edge" two weeks, ever since Miss Earhart's arrival in the islands and veiled hints she hoped to be the first woman to "solo" from Hawaii to California.

FLEMINGTON PREPARES FOR RUSH OF CURIOUS

tone is going up from the rest of the town, however. The thousands which jammed the roads last week are expected to be almost doubled tomorrow, and Flemington is ready in its quaint little way.

Ready For Boom
The restaurants are all shined up, the pottery factory—which pulled in some nice business last week—has both eyes open, and the boys who hold up the "parking, 25 cents" signs are primed.

A special—and augmented detail of local police, and a dozen state police, have been assigned to handle the traffic. Still more, it is expected, will be needed.

Following its surprise of last Sunday, the town today is restless with gleeful expectancy.

Meanwhile, despite adjournment until Monday, the early faithful crowded to the little courthouse once more, hopeful of even a glimpse at the room in which Bruno Richard Hauptmann is being tried.

Throughout the week, visitors have been streaming in, sitting in Lindbergh's chair, mounting the witness stand for a bit of clowning cross-examination, becoming mock judges and looking at the chair occupied by Hauptmann.

No one ever has ventured to sit in Hauptmann's chair, however. When urged, they decline, laughingly, blushing, but firmly.

MARRIED AT MERCER
Friday evening in the office of Alderman Thomas McClain, Mercer the marriage of Charles Sumner and Betty Eldenire, both of New Castle, took place.

Funny man! He labors one hour to get what he needs and nine hours to get what the neighbors think he should have.

Funeral Flowers
In ordering flowers to be sent to a home sorrowed by death, the average person seldom chooses the kind of flowers he wants. He merely orders a basket or bouquet. That is why we give the attention to do to funeral orders. The customers' confidence is something we cherish. We could not afford to do anything but our best.

State Game Farm Being Improved

Although this is ordinarily a quiet season at the Jordan State Game Farm, near Harlansburg, there is a considerable amount of activity in progress.

Every day finds a squad of RWD men there, averaging about 16 in number, busily engaged in widening roads and clearing fields on the game farm property. The fields, when cleared of brush and saplings, will be used for propagation purposes next spring. The RWD work has been underway since November.

Two thousand ringnecked pheasants are being wintered at the farm and require lean-to shelters and several square meals a day. It is these birds who are responsible for the production of next spring's bumper crop for the relish of Pennsylvania sportsmen.

Superintendent V. T. Warfel shipped from the Jordan farm last year about 18,500 pheasants and 24,000 pheasant eggs. The eggs were sent to sportsmen who hatched them under bantam hens and released them.

The raising of rabbits is still an experiment at the Jordan farm. As yet no attempt has been made to raise them on a large scale.

Pheasants for game purposes is an important part of the propagation farm work if it proves practical. More Reeves, (125 in all,) were raised at the Jordan farm last year than in any previous year. None were shipped out, however.

Mayor Waits While Boys Take Joyride In Elevator Cage

Up And Down Trips Result In Trip To Police Court For Youngsters

Four coy youngsters, ranging in ages from 9 to 12, held a "pow wow" with Mayor Charles B. Mayne this morning.

His honor and the four boys in question met in a most informal manner a few days ago, in a local downtown building, where Mayor Mayne has an apartment on the third floor.

Entering the building, his honor decided to reach the third floor by elevator. The mayor pressed the button on the side of the hoisting mechanism. The machine started towards the main floor and stopped on the second floor. The elevator then commenced to go up again.

Again the mayor pressed the button, and the same thing occurred. After pressing the button several times, with no better results, Mayor Mayne decided to look into the matter.

Going to the second floor of the building, his honor saw the elevator go up and down. As the elevator reached the second floor, Mayor Mayne quickly opened the door, and to his surprise was greeted by the four youngsters whose complexions changed from a rosy red to white. They were ordered to visit the mayor this morning.

After listening to a most interesting lecture by his honor, the boys were excused providing they discontinued the practice.

The boys faithfully promised and left police court.

Mayor Mayne stated later that he has received several complaints from proprietors of downtown buildings, where elevators are operated by persons who desire to use them.

"Elevators are to be used to transport people from one floor to another, not for youngsters to practice to become elevator operators," his honor exclaimed.

SAAR TERRITORY READY FOR VOTE

covering some parts of the countryside under a four-inch blanket. This was calculated to hinder the army trucks in their collection of the ballot boxes, and possibly to increase the already high tension by impeding all troop movements and thus encouraging terrorism.

Italian tanks were held in readiness in the rural districts to transport the ballot boxes.

Several incidents marked the eleventh-hour tension. Handbill distributors of all factions were openly intimidated, and a Communist bill peddler was shot. Because their patients charged they were being "terrorized" by Nazis, 196 children were removed from French schools.

Members of the German front organization forced numerous Jewish voters to surrender their voting papers, even though they had promised to vote for a return of the Saar to Germany.

ELDER MAKES TRIP SAFELY TO MIAMI

Elder and Doyle expect to do some cruising around the South before returning home.

Found: Why Youths Go To College These Days

(International News Service)

MISSOULA, Mont., Jan. 12.—"Why are you going to college?" an inquiring reporter for a University of Montana student publication asked of everyone he met on the campus for several days.

The answers for the most part were as expected, such as "to have a good time; to obtain a cultural background; to train for a job, and to have something to do."

Among the more unusual replies were the following: "I don't know. I haven't figured it out yet."

WEEKLY LETTER

Monday, Jan. 14, 1935 The Castleton 12:15 to 1:30 p. m.

Fellow Rotarian:
Back in 1900 the automobile industry had little effect on business conditions as a whole. That year 4,192 cars were built worth $4,899,443.

In 1932, the industry had much to do with our economic welfare. In 1932 were built 1,431,494 cars worth $795,045,300. Such an important industry is worth studying for its effect on all business. Monday we will have Mr. W. A. Francis speak on "The Automobile a Barometer of Our Economic Welfare."

Mr. Francis is a former New Castle boy who has held some of the most important positions in the automobile field and is well qualified to speak on this important subject. Fred Taylor attended Youngstown. CARL E. PAISLEY, Sec.

GOLD DECISION DELAY IS SEEN

and commodity markets as traders saw the possibility of a holding of unconstitutionality in the critical questions asked by justices.

Government attorneys were optimistic over likelihood of the court upholding the abrogation in three cases, which involve the gold clause in bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and the St. Louis & Iron Mountain, now under Missouri Pacific control.

A clear majority of the court—from the discussion during argument—appeared to believe that congress had the power to declare the gold clauses invalid.

It is estimated that more than $50,000,000 in principal of bond issues is involved in these cases, applying to private gold clause bonds.

The court appeared to be most critical toward the government's claim that it could substitute paper dollars for gold certificates and could pay a gold clause Liberty bond in an equal amount of dollars.

It is the claim of John M. Perry, New York lawyer, in the Liberty bond case, that the government must pay approximately $1,693 for each $1,000 face value bond because of devaluation of the dollar.

Although the government said in its brief that over $2,000,000,000 of gold clause government bonds were involved, Chief Justice Hughes drew from attorneys that, as a result of exchange, the amount has been reduced to $12,000,000,000, an adverse ruling thus would cost the government about $8,000,000,000.

The high court took the cases under consideration with a "prayer" to uphold constitutionality. He pointed to the "grave consequences" of an adverse decision.

WOMAN NOT GUILTY
MERCER, Pa., Jan. 12.—That Alice Daugherty of Franklin, clerk in the office of county commissioners of Venango county, was not guilty of reckless driving on March 2, 1934, when her car collided with the truck of Joseph Painter of Grove City, is the text of the opinion filed today by Judge J. A. McLaughry.

The accident occurred three miles from Mercer on the Sandy Lake road.

The woman received a hearing before a justice. Testimony was taken before the county jurist.

LIBRARY IS NOT OWNER OF NEW BUILDING SITE, SAYS BOARD MEMBER

and after its completion he trusts that it will be presented to the City of New Castle.

In Remote Future
"The will can only take effect in the remote future and no one can even guess the date. After such date arrives the Clendenin block must be sold, which means that the owners of the other two-thirds interest must agree on the price or expensive litigation would ensue. There must then be found a market even at such an agreed price. The proceeds of Mr. Clendenin's interest must then be ample to erect a combined library and art gallery which to say the least is exceedingly doubtful. The personal representatives of Mr. Clendenin must then take it solely upon themselves to plan and erect the combined building. After all these things happen and the structure is all complete it is then to be presented to the city. Prior to such a time the city has no title of any sort to the premises. The will attests Mr. Clendenin's interest in the future welfare of New Castle but certainly offers no solution to the Library's problems."

The Alumni of Washington & Jefferson College announce that the lecture of Mark Sullivan, which was booked for January 15th, 1935, has been postponed until April. The exact date will be announced later.

Senator LaFollette's lecture, coming as it did immediately after the fall election and when the Senator was so much in the public eye, was appreciated by all who heard it. We therefore hope, by postponing Mark Sullivan's lecture until Congress has gotten well into this important Session, to provide our patrons with a most vivid picture of just what is going on in Washington.

All tickets heretofore sold for this lecture will be valid on the postponed date. Individual tickets for the Sullivan lecture will be offered soon for 15c, 25c and 50c. All seats reserved. We appreciate the public interest we have received.

WHAT DO WOMEN THINK OF MEN?

If I had the nerve—and the persistent curiosity—there's one question I'd ask every woman I meet.
Sooner or later, I'd ask it. I'd wait until she was in a frank and
honest mood and then I'd quietly
say to her:
"Do you like women better than men? Or do you prefer men to women?"

I have an idea—it's really only a hunch—that after I asked that question of about 1,000 women; after
I made notes of all the answers I
received; after I analyzed, digested
and tabulated them; I'd learn that about 90 per cent of the answers
would be:

"I like men better than women."
To be sure the answers would be phased differently. There would be exceptions and explanations. And I know I would encounter some
women who would burst into flames
and hotly insist that women are superior to men. But I wouldn't be asking whether women are superior to men. I'd merely be wanting to know whether women like
men better than they like women.
... And I have a strong hunch that women, not counting the man-
haters, do like men more than they
like women.

I may be wrong. I don't insist that my hunch is correct. For after
all my sex is betraying my accuracy of observation. But what I have seen and heard, it does seem
to me that the woman whose point
of view has not been cluttered up
by what she has read or by any
ideas to the bad treatment women
have had at the hands of men, likes
the other sex better than her own.

I wouldn't even try to defend this conclusion. I have reached. And if any woman should ask me why I think as I do, I'd say I decided this
in the way we human beings
usually do: From the comparatively few instances few women I have known. I have jumped to a general
theory as true for hundreds of millions of women. I have converted what I think into what I think I know.

Another theory of mine is that
men like their own sex better than they do the other. ... But I may be mistaken about that, too.

PRETENSE IS NOT ESCAPE
People do talk about you, usually
about your weaknesses.
Not often are your most redeem-
ing qualities mentioned, except by
your closest friends.

Possibly you think you have hidden most of your disagreeable qualities, but you haven't.

There have been times and occasions when, by your own words or actions, very lasting impressions
against you have been made clear
as day.

Your good traits may be predominant.
And those who deliberately gossip
about you don't bother to remember
that you are usually strong and dependable.

You think that trivial mistake of
yours cannot count against you
when compared with so many
months and years of rectitude.

Then one day you have the story revived and it takes the starch out
of you.

How can you counteract such talk,
for you are not that sort of person.

You are a pretty fair and good sort, but you did make a song or you did play an underhand trick, or
you did show a clown foot.

Don't pretend, but just be true-
blue.

THE OLD-TIMERS
Some day when high the business
tide

In after years again shall run
And youth has thrust us all aside,
Old warriors resting in the sun,
We'll hear them planning golden
dreams.

And rise to caution: "Not so fast!
There's danger in these costly
schemes.

The easy days can never last!"

As once we mocked our elders when
They tried to folly to restrain,
They'll call us "poor old fogies" then
And all our speeches will be vain.
We'll be the ancients in the way,
The graybeard dwellers in the
past,
And we'll be laughed at when we
say:
"The easy days can never last."

In vain we'll talk of twenty-nine
And thirty-two and thirty-three.
The younger men who hold the line
Must learn their lessons just as
we.

They'll vote for bonds a hall to build
As lightly as our votes were cast.
And we old mossbacks will be stilled
Whenever we caution: "Not so
fast!"

When one among us shall arise
In years to come to speak a word
Of prudence and of counsel wise,
Recalling what to us occurred,
In fancy I can hear it said:
"Let's get the resolution passed.
The poor old duffer's off his head!
He thinks the good times cannot
last."
(Copyright, 1935, Edgar A. Guest)

Words of Wisdom

Of a truth, men are mystically
united: a mystic bond of brotherhood makes all men one.—Carlyle.

Only eight murders occurred in London in 1934. Only one remains unsolved as two murderers were executed. Getting the murderers and
taking the wind out of them slows
up that kind of crime. They don't
coax the bad boys to eat over there.

THE "FOUR OTHER PEOPLE"

COUNSEL for Bruno Richard Hauptmann said a few days ago
that he would reveal in court last Thursday the names of four persons who, in his opinion, were responsible for the kidnapping
of the Lindbergh baby.

During the last few days the case of the state has been developing with what seems to be deadly effectiveness. An old man of eighty-seven years walked up to Hauptmann, placed a hand on his shoulder, and testified under oath that he had seen Hauptmann near Hopewell, in the vicinity of the Lindbergh residence, on March 1, 1932, the day the baby was kidnaped and murdered.

Another old man, Dr. Condon, mentally and physically alert, holding his own at every stage of a desperate battle of wits with the defense counsel, has told a devastating story of the payment of the ransom to a man whom he has identified as Haupt-
mann, who, he says, recognized two safety pins as those that held down the covers of the baby's crib.

The state undeniably has scored telling blows during these last few days and its witnesses have stood up well under the attack of the defense lawyers. The latter have not yet disclosed who the "four other people" were who murdered the child and
so magnanimously handed the blood money to Hauptmann.

PROTECTING PEDESTRIANS ON HIGHWAYS

With more than 12,000 motor vehicle accidents involving pedestrians reported in Pennsylvania during 1934 the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, recommends construction of walks along main highways in sections extensively used by persons afoot. Efforts will be made by the state motoring body to have federal works funds used for such projects.

Surveys show that accidents in which pedestrians are involved are more frequent at night than during the day, and that more occur in winter than during the heavier traffic of the summer months. One of the most complete studies on this subject was made recently in New York state, where it was found that in a period of twelve months the number of fatal pedestrian accidents at night during the winter was more than twice the number during summer months.

The problems of pedestrian safety is being recognized not only in Pennsylvania, but in a number of other states. New York recently enacted a law requiring pedestrians to walk facing traffic, and a number of other states have posted signs warning them to use the highways in this manner. Success of the New York law is being watched with a great deal of interest and a similar act may be introduced at the present session of the Pennsylvania legislature.

A WELL-GROOMED CONGRESS

Is there reassurance for the country generally, as well as for the Washington observers, in the circumstance that both the senate and house presented a well-dressed appearance at the opening of congress
last week?

There may be, for it is difficult to picture radicalism walking in a morning coat and spats, or plots for a socialistic state hatching beneath a silk top-hat. The gardenia in the lapel of Senator Bilbo's coat was, perhaps, the final touch of comfort for persons who may have been jittery over the outlook.

Emerson said "The sense of being perfectly well dressed gives a feeling of inward tranquility which religion is powerless to bestow."
If Emerson was right we settle more comfortably in our seats and peace like a river may flow o'er many souls.

AL SMITH NOMINATES HERBERT HOOVER

Those whose memories go back to 1928, when the rival candidates for the presidency were going after each other in hammer and tongs fashion, can hardly refrain from a good-natured chuckle when they read that Al Smith has nominated Herbert Hoover to be his fellow director on the board of directors of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Hoover succeeds the late Calvin Coolidge on the board. Some years ago there was a very serious discussion concerning the problem of what we should do with our presidents after they left the White House.
The New York Life seems to answer the question. It even goes farther inasmuch as it appears to accept past candidates for the presidency.

The Roosevelt plan will have the right-of-way in congress. Right-of-way and right away.

If in doubt whether the biggest hicks are still found in New York City, listen to Reilly's version: Four other persons murdered the baby and gave Hauptmann the money.

New York has been asked to outlaw nudism by the so-called "decency group" which had been cleaning up the movies. Illustrating that reformers, above all others, are never without new worlds to conquer.

The World

AND THE

Mud Puddles

OH LORDY!
In the "gold old days" it was not unusual to have a church congregation enter a protest against a near-
by saloon because its customers got
too noisy and disturbed services.
That situation was reversed in Los Angeles the other day when the owner of the South Gate Bar
saloon complained to Michael Con-
nelly, State Liquor Administrator,
that a church group meeting in the
same block was hurting his business.

"My place has always been peaceful and is patronized by law-abiding
citizens, the beer seller's complaint
reads. "Members of a nearby religious organization conduct themselves in a loud and undignified
manner, singing long and untune-
fully into the night. This noise is disrupting my business."

For Today

No man when he hath lighted a

Words of Wisdom

united: a mystic bond of brother-
hood makes all men one.—Carlyle.

Only eight murders occurred in London in 1934. Only one remains
unsolved as two murderers were executed. Getting the murderers and

CHANGING SURNAMES
In Virginia years ago a man named Hogg went to the legislature and requested that his name be changed to Hoge.

His action prompted a local poet to write of him—
"Hogg by name; hog by nature, changed to Hoge by Legislature."

However, the man was a good citizen and the people of Virginia resented the slur and when a descend-
ent entered politics, they elected him governor.

The story comes to mind on considering the petition of Wilbur

perior court to change his name to Hamburg.

The original name, he complains, reminds his friends of "that conglomeration of chopped meat" so

It seems to us, though, that Hamburg is about as bad as Hamburg

Marmaduke Pembroke or Radcliffe

Speaker Byrns' Views.
Recalls Republican Landslide.
Knows His Business.

Central Press

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Speaker
Joseph W. Byrns of the national
house of representatives, whose
party today has the largest majority on Capitol Hill that either major party has been able to boast of
since Civil War times (and then it was a Republican majority), can remember when (rather recently, too)
Aunt Democracy appeared to be nearly as moribund as the G. O. P., appears to be at the present writing.

The Tennesseean ("Joe") Byrns, as
all Washington refers to him, not
disrespectfully but affectionately,
hails from Nashville) was chairman
of the Jeffersonian congressional campaign committee in 1928, the year of the Hoover landslide.

Particularly upon him had rested
the responsibility of getting as many Democratic representatives elected
as possible. It did not prove possible to get as many of them elected
as optimistic Democrats had hoped
would win. They were not so badly
trampled on as were the Republicans in 1932 and last November, but
they were sufficiently licked to convince many of their number that their party alignment was disintegrating—that they never would succeed in staging a come-back.

BYRNS' EXPLANATION
Not only was the party beaten; it
was split wide open every which
way—sectionally, economically, religiously, wet-and-dryly, and in various other different directions.

Chairman (as he was then) Byrns
never did admit that the Democratic party was on the eve of breaking
up completely, but he certainly did
arrive in Washington, for the 1928-29 session of congress, in a somewhat despondent frame of mind.

"The trouble is," he told me, "that
we Democrats have principles, which
we stand by inflexibly. This would be all right if we agreed on them,
but we disagree—violently. When
we go to the polls, one group of us
is with one set of principles; and other groups go with other sets, and
these miscellaneous sets of principles conflict and clash and side-
swipe."

the Nashvillean, about half a year ago, "have no principles. Office is all they want. They don't care how they get into it. It's immaterial to them whether they scale a rain
spout and enter by way of an attic
window or crawl through a coal hole
and come up from the cellar. Later

they may quarrel among themselves
over the loot, but they're unanimous
in adopting the best method of arriving at it. That's why they out-
vote us."

BYRNS AS A COMPROMISER
I incline to think so.
He has had a great deal of political experience — is beginning his twenty-seventh year in congress,
and, when he came to Washington,
already had a career behind him in the Tennessee legislature. Manifestly
he believes profoundly in the necessity for unity, to make principles
effective.

The White House unquestionably
favored Congressman Sam Rayburn
of Texas for the speakership, on the ground that Rayburn is a fine sample of the unyielding type of statesman, who could be depended on to fight to the last ditch for administration policies, regardless of the risk of a shattering of party cohesion in the house of representatives.

Byrns, on the opposite hand, was
blamed for having made a concession or two (when he thought he must, in the interest of Democratic harmony) as majority leader during
the last congressional session.

HIS BUSINESS"
My personal notion is that Speaker Byrns thoroughly knows his business.

He knows it this well, anyway:
The administration, strong as it is, could not prevent his election as speaker.

When he yielded, undoubtedly he
had to yield, or disrupt his following. Maybe Rayburn would not have done so—and maybe an insur-
rection would have followed.

The administration's theory is that the Tennesseean betrayed
weakness.

The evident opinion of an overwhelming majority of his Democratic fellow members was that he demonstrated himself to be an able tactician than the administration.

It is complained of Byrns that he is a conservative. Only moderately
so, I'd say. He isn't a radical, certainly. But neither has he ever
seemed to me to be a reactionary.

He has voted consistently with the
administration's program, anyway.
The only thing he hasn't done is to try to club his little Democratic lawmakers, in instances where club-
bing obviously would not prove effective.

And when he has had to yield, he
has done it gracefully; not grouchy-
ly.

History Up-to-Date—Jan. 12, 1628.
Charles Ferrault was born in France.

He immortalized in literature the
most widely known stories in the
world, next to those of the Bible;
yet his name is virtually unknown.

He put into literary form "Little Red Riding Hood," "Puss Boots,"
"Cinderella," the children's form of
"Bluebeard," and other well-known
tales that came in time to be erroneously identified with "Mother Goose."

Jan. 12, 1740—Johann Heinrich
Pestalozzi was born in Switzerland,
destined to become a world wide influence in improvement of the mass
mind. "He had the deepest effect
on all branches of education, and
his influence is far from being exhausted," says a modern authority.

When Pestalozzi went to Paris
and did his best to interest Napoleon in a scheme of national education, the great conqueror said he could not trouble himself about the alphabet!

Jan. 12, 1874—The original "Siamese Twins" died.

They were Chinese, not Siamese.
Chang passed on of brain hemiparesis at 63, End of fight 2½ hours later. Post-mortem examination disclosed Chang could have been separated and saved.

They had married sisters, daughters of a Virginia clergyman, and some of their offspring are alive today in North Carolina and Oklahoma.

Jan. 12, 1919—The so-called Peace
Conference convened formally in Paris, and sanctified ward politicians in freck coats sat down to make decisions directly affecting
the future of 1,000,000,000 living persons and the lives of their descendants.

It continued a year, succeeded
only in generously sowing the seeds
of another war.

Mrs. Glen Cusley, Rockefeller
Institute, Princeton University, asks
us to explain the origin of the superstition concerning the number 13.

Precisely how it began, no one
can say. In Scandinavian mythology there are 12 Demigods, and legend has it that Loki came among them making 13. Loki was evil, and among the Demigods he became
the chief author of human misfortunes." Because of him, 13 came to have an evil significance to Scandinavians.

Another popular explanation is that there were 13 persons at the Last Supper, Judas being represented as the 13th guest.

The superstition regarding 13 is universal, as Lillian Barker shows us in her excellent book, "The Customs of Mankind."

And H. G. Wells remarks, "And
Neolithic man was counting, and
falling under the spell of numbers
... and wondering why some quantities like 13 were easy to divide in
all sorts of ways, and others, like 13, impossible."

WHAT DO WOMEN THINK OF MEN?

If I had the nerve—and the persisting curiosity—there's one question I'd ask every woman I meet.
Sooner or later, I'd ask it. I'd
wait until she was in a frank and
honest mood and then I'd quietly
say to her:

"Do you like women better than men? Or do you prefer men to
women?"

I have an idea—it's really only a
hunch—that after I asked that
question of about 1,000 women; after
I made notes of all the answers I
received; after I analyzed, digested
and tabulated them; I'd learn that
about 90 per cent of the answers
would be:

"I like men better than women."
To be sure the answers would be phased differently. There would be exceptions and explanations. And I know I would encounter some
women who would burst into flames
and hotly insist that women are
superior to men. . . . But I wouldn't be asking whether women are superior to men. I'd merely be wanting to know whether women like
men better than they like women.

And I have a strong hunch that women, not counting the martinettes, do like men more than they
like women.

I may be wrong. I don't insist
that my hunch is correct, for after
all my sex is betraying my accuracy of observation. But what I have seen and heard, it does seem
to me that the women whose point
of view has not been cluttered up
by what she has read or by any
ideas to the bad treatment women
have had at the hands of men, like
the other sex better than her own.

I wouldn't even try to defend this conclusion I have reached. And if
any woman should ask me why I think as I do, I'd say I decided this
in the way we human beings
usually do: From the comparatively few instances few women I have
known, I have jumped to a general
theory as true for hundreds of millions of women. I have converted what I think into what I think I know.

Another theory of mine is that
men like their own sex better than
they do the other. . . . But I may be

PRETENCE IS NOT ESCAPE

People do talk about you, usually
about your weaknesses.
Not often are your most redeem-
ing qualities mentioned, except by
your closest friends.

Possibly you think you have hidden most of your disagreeable qualities, but you haven't.

There have been times and occasions when, by your own words or
actions, very lasting impressions
against you have been made clear
as day.

Your good traits may be predominant. And those who deliberately gossip
about you don't bother to remember
that you are usually strong and dependable.

You think that trivial mistake of
yours cannot count against you
when compared with so many
months and years of rectitude.

Then one day you hear the story
revived and it takes the starch out
of you.

Now, can you counteract such talk,
for you are not that sort of per-
son?

You are a pretty fair and good
sort, but you did make a scene or
you did play an underhand trick, or
you did show a cloven foot.

THE OLD-TIMERS

Some day when high the business
tide
In after years again shall run
And youth has thrust us all aside,
And warriors resting in the sun,
We'll hear them planning golden
dreams.

And rise to caution: "Not so fast!
There's danger in these costly
schemes.
The easy days can never last!"

As once we mocked our elders when
They tried our folly to restrain,
They'll call us "poor old fogies" then
And all our speeches will be vain.
We'll be the ancients in the way,
The graybeard dwellers in the
past,
And we'll be laughed at when we
say:

"The easy days can never last."

In vain we'll talk of twenty-nine
And thirty-two and thirty-three.
The younger men who hold the line
Must learn their lessons just as
we.

They'll vote for bonds a hall to build
As lightly as our votes were cast.
And we old mossbacks will be stilled
When we caution: "Not so
fast!"

When one among us shall arise
In years to come to speak a word
Of prudence and of counsel wise,
Recalling what to use occurred,
In fancy I can hear it said:
"Let's get the resolution passed.
The poor old duffer's off his head!
He thinks the good times cannot
last."

the Nashvillian, about half in earnest, "have no principles. Office is
all they want. They don't care how they get into it. It's immaterial to them whether they see a rain
spout and enter by way of an attic
window or crawl through a coal hole
and come up from the cellar. Later

over the loot, but they're unanimous
in adopting the best method of attacking it. That's why they out-

BYRNS AS A COMPROMISER
Does this explain why Speaker
Byrns has a reputation as a compromiser?
I incline to think so.

He has had a great deal of political experience—is beginning his
twenty-seventh year in congress,
and, when he came to Washington,
already had a career behind him in the Tennessee legislature. Manifestly he believes profoundly in the necessity for unity, to make principles
effective.

favored Congressman Sam Rayburn
of Texas for the speakership, on the
ground that Rayburn is a fine sample of the unyielding type of states-
man, who could be depended on to fight to the last ditch for administration policies, regardless of the risk of a shattering of party cohesion in the house of representatives.
Byrns, on the opposite hand, was
blamed for having made a concession or two (when he thought
"must, in the interest of Democratic
harmony") as majority leader during
the last congressional session.

HIS BUSINESS"
My personal notion is that Speaker Byrns thoroughly knows his business.

He knows it this well, anyway:
The admission, strong as it
is, could not prevent his election as
speaker.

When he yielded, undoubtedly he
had to yield, or disrupt his follow-
ing. Maybe Rayburn would not
have done so—and maybe an insur-
rection would have followed.

The administration's theory is that the Tennessean betrayed
weakness.

The evident opinion of an overwhelming majority of his Democratic fellow members was that he
demonstrated himself to be an abler
tactician than the administration.

It is complained of Byrns that he
is a conservative. Only moderately so, I'd say. He isn't radical, certainly. But neither has he ever
seemed to me to be a reactionary.
He has voted consistently with the
administration program, anyway.

The only thing he hasn't done is to try to club his fellow Democratic
lawmakers, in instances where club-
bing obviously would not prove effective.

And when he has had to yield, he
has done it gracefully; not grouchy-
ly.

He immortalized in literature the
most widely known stories in the

Red Riding Hood," "Puss in Boots,"
"Cinderella," the children's form of
"Bluebeard" and other well-loved
tales that came in time to be erroneously identified with "Mother Goose."

Jan. 12, 1746—Johann Heinrich
Pestalozzi was born in Switzerland,
destined to become a world wide influence in improvement of the mass
mind. "He had the deepest effect
on all branches of education, and
his influence is far from being exhausted," says a modern author.

When Pestalozzi went to Paris
and did his best to interest Napoleon in a scheme of national education, the great conqueror said he

Jan. 12, 1874—The original "Siam-

Jan. 12, 1919—The so-called Peace
Conference convened formally in Paris, and sanctified ward politicians in French coats sat down to make decisions directly affecting
the future of 1,000,000,000 living persons and the lives of their descend-

It continued a year, succeeded
only in generously sowing the seeds
of another war.

His works live on. He was founder of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, of which there are 110,000 adherents in the U. S. today, including ex-President Hoover, and Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler. Son of a weaver, at 19 he went forth to preach in England a religion which denied that outward showmen—without his intending it—was a new church. His insistence upon the personal aspect of religious experience made it impossible for him to countenance the organization of an elaborate clergy and the setting

apart of palatial edifices for divine worship, and caused the continued impersonal and impersonal of his followers for "blasphemy."

In Massachusetts in the 17th century, persons found to be Quakers were hanged.

Jan. 13, 1723—Georgia's first per-

Jan. 13, 1794—There was 15 stars

Congress increased the number from 13 because of the admission of Kentucky and Vermont to the Union. Until 1818, a stripe as well

Jan. 13, 1864—Stephen Foster

You're Wrong If You Believe—
That there is anything unlucky
about the 13th of the month, of the 13th of any month.

Mrs. Glen Ousley, Rockefeller
Institute, Princeton University, asks
us to explain the origin of the superstition concerning the number 13.

Precisely how it began, no one
can say. In Scandinavian mythology there are 12 Demigods, and there is that Loki kam' among them, making 13. Loki was evil, and
among the Demigods, he became
"the chief author of human misfortunes." Because of him, 13 came
to have an evil significance to Scan-
dinavians.

Another popular explanation is
that there were 13 persons at the Last Supper, Judas being represented as the 13th guest.

The superstition regarding 13 is universal. Lillian Ficker shows us in her excellent book, "Thecustoms of Mankind."

And H. G. Wells remarks, "And
Neolithic man was counting, and
falling under the spell of numbers
... and wondering why some quantities like 7 were easy to divide in
all sorts of ways, and others, like 13, impossible."

THE "FOUR OTHER PEOPLE"

COUNSEL for Bruno Richard Hauptmann said a few days ago
that he would reveal in court last Thursday the names of four persons who, in his opinion, were responsible for the kidnapping
of the Lindbergh baby.

During the last few days the case of the state has been developing with what seems to be deadly effectiveness. An old man of eighty-seven years walked up to Hauptmann, placed a
hand on his shoulder, and testified under oath that he had seen Hauptmann near Hopewell, in the vicinity of the Lindbergh residence, on March 1, 1932, the day the baby was kidnaped and murdered.

Another old man, Dr. Condon, mentally and physically
alert, holding his own at every stage of a desperate battle of wits
with the defense counsel, has told a devastating story of the payment of the ransom to a man whom he has identified as Haupt-
mann, who, he says, recognized two safety pins as those that
held down the covers of the baby's crib.

The state undeniably has scored telling blows during these
last few days and its witnesses have stood up well under the attack of the defense lawyers. The latter have not yet disclosed
who the "four other people" were who murdered the child and
so magnanimously handed the blood money to Hauptmann.

PROTECTING PEDESTRIANS ON HIGHWAYS

With more than 12,000 motor vehicle accidents involving pedestrians reported in Pennsylvania during 1934 the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, recommends construction of walks along main highways in sections extensively used by persons afoot. Efforts will be made by the state motoring body to have federal works funds used for such projects.

Surveys show that accidents in which pedestrians are involved are more frequent at night than during the day, and that more occur in winter than during the heavier traffic of the summer months. One of the most complete studies on this subject was made recently in New York state, where it was found that in a period of twelve months the number
of fatal pedestrian accidents at night during the winter was more than twice the number during summer months.

The problems of pedestrian safety is being recognized not only in Pennsylvania, but in a number of other states. New York recently enacted a law requiring pedestrians to walk facing traffic, and a number of other states have posted signs warning them to use the highways in this manner. Success of the New York law is being watched with a great deal of interest and a similar act may be introduced at the present session of the Pennsylvania legislature.

A WELL-GROOMED CONGRESS

Is there reassurance for the country generally, as well as for the
house presented a well-dressed appearance at the opening of congress
last week?

There may be, for it is difficult to picture radicalism walking in a morning coat and spats, or plots for a socialistic state hatching beneath a silk top-hat. The gardenia in the lapel of Senator Bilbo's coat was, perhaps, the final touch of comfort for persons who may have been
jittery over the outlook.

Emerson said "The sense of being perfectly well dressed gives a feeling of inward tranquility which religion is powerless to bestow."

If Emerson was right we settle more comfortably in our seats and
peace like a river may flow o'er many souls.

AL SMITH NOMINATES HERBERT HOOVER

Those whose memories go back to 1928, when the rival candidates
for the presidency were going after each other in hammer and tongs
fashion, can hardly refrain from a good-natured chuckle when they read
that Al Smith has nominated Herbert Hoover to be his fellow director on the board of directors of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Hoover succeeds the late Calvin Coolidge on the board. Some years ago there was a very serious discussion concerning the problem of what we should do with our presidents after they left the White House.
The New York Life seems to answer the question. It even goes farther inasmuch as it appears to accept past candidates for the presidency.

The Roosevelt plan will have the right-of-way in congress. Right-of-way and right away.

If in doubt whether the biggest hicks are still found in New York City, listen to Reilly's version: Four other persons murdered the baby and
gave Hauptmann the money.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

OH LORDY!
In the "old old days" it was not unusual to have a church congregation enter a protest against a near-
by saloon because its customers got
too noisy and disturbed services.
That situation was reversed in Los Angeles the other day when the owner of the South Gate Beer
saloon complained to Michael Con-
nelly, State Liquor Administrator,
that a church group meeting in the
same block was hurting his business.

"My place has always been peaceful and is patronized by law-abiding
citizens," the beer seller's complaint
reads. "Members of a nearby religious organization conduct themselves in a loud and undignified
manner, singing long and untune-
fully into the night. This noise is disrupting my business."

Bible Thought For Today

No man when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth
it on a candlestick, that they who enter in may see the light.—St. Luke 8:16.

Words of Wisdom

Of a truth, men are mystically
united: a mystic bond of brotherhood makes all men one.—Carlyle.

Only eight murders occurred in London in 1934. Only one remains unsolved and two murderers were executed. Getting the murderers and
taking the wind out of them slows
up that kind of crime. They don't
coax the bad boys to eat over there.

WHAT DO WOMEN THINK OF MEN?

If I had the nerve—and the per-
sisting curiosity—there's one question I'd ask every woman I meet.
Sooner or later, I'd ask it. . . I'd
wait until she was in a frank and
honest mood and then I'd quietly
say to her:

"Do you like women better than men? Or do you prefer men to
women?"

I have an idea—it's really only a hunch—but after I asked that question of about 1,000 women; after
I made notes of all the answers I
received; after I analyzed, digested
and tabulated them; I'd learn that
about 90 per cent of the answers
would be:

"I like men better than women."
To be sure the answers would be
phased differently. There would be exceptions and explanations. And I know I would encounter some
women who would burst into flames
and hotly insist that women are
superior to men. . . But I wouldn't be asking whether women are superior to men. I'd merely be want-
ing to know whether women like
men better than they like women.

And I have a strong hunch that
women, not counting the man-
haters, do like men more than they
like women.

I may be wrong. I don't insist
that my hunch is correct. For after
all my sex is betraying my accuracy of observation. But what I have seen and heard, it does seem
to me that the woman whose point
of view has not been cluttered up
by what she has read or by any
ideas to the bad treatment women
have had at the hands of men, likes
the other sex better than her own.

I wouldn't even try to defend this conclusion I have reached. And if
any woman should ask me why I
think as I do, I'd say I decided this
in the way we human beings
usually do: From the comparatively few instances few women I have
known, I have jumped to a general
theory as true for hundreds of millions of women. I have converted
what I think into what I think I
know.

Another theory of mine is that
men like their own sex better than
they do the other. . . But I may be mistaken about that, too.

PRETENCE IS NOT ESCAPE

People do talk about you, usually
about your weaknesses.
Not often are your most redeem-
ing qualities mentioned, except by
your closest friends.

Possibly you think you have hidden from your own disreputable qualities, but you haven't.

There have been times and occa-
sions when, by your own words or
actions, very lasting impressions
against you have been made clear
as day.

Your good traits may be predom-
inant.

And those who deliberately gossip
about you don't bother to remember
that you are usually strong and dependable.

You think that trivial mistake of
yours cannot count against you
when compared with so many
months and years of rectitude.

Then one day you hear the story
repeated and it takes the starch out
of you.

How can you counteract such talk,
for you are not that sort of per-
son.

You are a pretty fair and good
sort, but you did make a scene or
you did play an underhand trick, or
you did show a clown foot.

Don't pretend, but just be true-
blue.

THE OLD-TIMERS

Some day when high the business
tide

In after years again shall run
And youth has thrived and aged.

Old warriors resting in the sun,
We'll hear them planning golden
dreams

And rise to caution: "Not so fast!
There's danger in these costly
schemes.

The easy days can never last!"

As once we mocked our elders when
They tried our folly to restrain,
They'll call us "poor old fogies" then,
And all our speeches will be vain.

We'll be the ancients in the way,
The graybeard dwellers in the
past,
And we'll be laughed at when we
say:

"The easy days can never last."

In vain we'll talk of twenty-nine
And thirty-two and thirty-three.
The younger men who hold the line
Must learn their lessons just as
we.

They'll vote for bonds a hall to build
As lightly as our votes were cast.
And we old mossbacks will be stilled
Whenever we caution: "Not so
fast!"

When one among us shall arise
In years to come to speak a word
Of prudence and of counsel wise,
Recalling what to use occurred,
In fancy I can hear it said:

"Let's get the resolution passed.
The poor old duffer's off his head!
He thinks the good times cannot
last."

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:56. Sun rises

Figures given out in Washington
show that twenty per cent more people are on relief now than ever before and that unemployment has increased half a million. All that money being spent don't seem to be hitting the right spot.

Sign seen in a rooming house on East Side: "Please Clean Tub

Lem Hook, prominent Slippery

the snap that some stenographers have achieved he figures he could make some good whips for wild animal acts in circuses.

There is nothing so comfortable
as old shoes and old clothes around home. But nothing makes you more uncomfortable than having those same things on while out in company.

Perhaps you have noticed that no efficiency expert has been able to show the average business man how he can eat a quick luncheon any quicker.

A scientist says there is no such thing as an accident. What about when the bank's figures agree with your check stubs?

A West Chester judge refused to permit a pretty young woman suing in his court to offer her knees as evidence, perhaps of good faith. He said it wasn't good form, the old killy, but how did he know?

Besides, isn't a jury to have any fun at all?

Vice-President Garner feels sad
because he's unable to give the press
an occasional statement. Why doesn't he think up a good 5-cent message
the country needs most?

It certainly seems very strange that the automobile industry should suddenly fall for knee action just when the theatrical profession begins to sense a lack of interest in it.

A little activity back of a small idea produces more than all the planning and inactivity of genius.

Times are normal when typical Americans can't loaf without spending money.

Never trust a married man with a secret. He can't resist the temptation to show his wife how much he knows.

The only person who can feel as helpless as a cripple caught in a burning building, according to Aunt Mary McLuke, of Highland Heights, is a mother who is trying to get her daughter to travel the old-fashioned way.

I cannot tell what future days
may bring to me and mine. I only ask to carry on, and smile instead of whine. I would not choose the easy way while others strive to win. I only ask for strength each day to live above earth's din. I want to know and share the pain so common to another. That I may have a common faith to help a shipwrecked brother. If I must bear my cross alone from dawn to setting sun. I only ask dear God give me, the grace to carry on.

Many a ragged coat, doth hide a heart of gold. Like diamonds in the rough are they, their value all untold. We hear the cry on every hand, the weaker pushed aside. And treasures gold by might made bold wrapped in a robe of pride, ignores the need of brother man with closed eyes passing by. While others work to stem the tide in answer to the cry. If we could know or feel the grief of those who walk alone. Who seek in vain for some succor from pillows made of stone. I wonder would it still our song, to share the others lack, could we but see the bleeding stripes laid long on patient backs. We often pass the task along and say just let another, who's better fit to lend a hand help a fallen brother, instead of doing all we can, tho' small may be the gift. Have we done our best today a burden to uplift?

I know when setting sun shall come in Life's mellow twilight glow,
if we have done our best, a haven
we shall know, and find beyond the sunset sea a place of heart's desire because we served the least of these,
passing thru the fire.

In the years to come there will be thousands more people who will want something given to them and for which they will not want to give anything in return, not even thanks.

Women have used cosmetics for Evidently the plan is successful or they would have tried something else by this time.

Down in West Virginia the school teachers have been told they should not lick up beer in the night clubs.
Seems to us if they want to lick up suds they could do it at home.

CHANGING SURNAMES

In Virginia years ago a man named Hogg went to the legislature and requested that his name be changed to Hoge.

His action prompted a local poet
to write of him—

"Hogg by name; hog by nature, changed to Hoge by Legislature."
However, the man was a good citizen and the people of Virginia resented the slur and when a descend-
ent entered politics, they elected him governor.

The story comes to mind on considering the petition of Wilbur
Homburger to a Los Angeles Supreme court to change his name to Hamburg.

The original name, he complains,
reminds his friends of "that conglomeration of chopped meat" so familiar to Americans.

It seems to us, though, that Hamburg is about as bad as Homburger
and that while he was at it, Mr.
Homburger—beg pardon, Mr. Hamburger—should have changed his name to something fancy, say, to Marmaduke Pembroke or Radcliffe
Ruggles—or maybe to John Smith!

A fire sprinkler in the Duke of York Theatre, London, which goes off automatically when the temperature reaches a certain degree, let loose the other day as a dancing
chorus was practicing on the stage
and dropped eight tons of water.
It must have been a hot dance

"Why," asks "Silly Sally," "so

A college education helps. It keeps you from feeling inferior to the boss,

A colored country preacher, strong on visiting the female members of his flock, was traveling along the

"He's home."

"Anything else lady?" asked the

"Oh, Yes. I want an apple barrel to make a chicken coop for my dog."

Persistence creates confidence, develops interest and makes your firm and your products remembered and demanded. It is the cumulative effect of your advertising that makes advertising pay.

admit the old boy put up a good

The United States treasury department has banned a "foreign film

roine appears in one scene in the

It seems to us it would not make much difference how fast airplanes flew. The main thing would be to keep them up until one wanted them to come down to a place that would not give too much of a jolt.

But if a man builds a better mouse
trap now, he is so busy making speeches that he never has time to make any more.

power of concentration in middle life. Not if he has a chronic ail-

Washington At A Glance

Speaker Byrns' Views.
Recalls Republican Landslide.
Knows His Business.

Central Press

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Speaker
Joseph W. Byrns of the national
house of representatives, whose
party today has the largest majority on Capitol Hill that either major party has been able to boast of
since Civil war times (and then it
was a Republican majority), can remember when (rather recently, too)
Auntie Democracy appeared to be
nearly as moribund as the G. O. P.
appears to be at the present writing.

The Tennesseean "Joe" Byrns, as
all Washington refers to him, not
disrespectfully but affectionately,
hails from Nashville) was chairman
of the Jeffersonian congressional
campaign committee in 1928, the year of the Hoover landslide. He particularly upon him had rested
the responsibility of getting as many Democratic representatives elected
as possible. It did not prove possible to get as many of them elected
as optimistic Democrats had hoped
would win. They were not so badly
trampled on as were the Republicans in 1932 and last November, but
they were sufficiently licked to convince many of their number that
their party alignment was disintegrating — that they never would
succeed in staging a come-back.

BYRNS' EXPLANATION

Not only was the party beaten; it
was split wide open every which
way—sectionally, economically, religiously, wet-and-dry, and in various other different directions.

Chairman (as he was then) Byrns
never did admit that the Democratic party was on the eve of breaking
up completely, but he certainly did
arrive in Washington, for the 1928-29 session of congress, in a some-
what despondent frame of mind.

"The trouble is," he told me, "that
we Democrats have principles, which
we stand by inflexibly. This would
be all right if we agreed on them,
but we disagree—violently. When
we go to the polls, one group of us
comes with one set of principles;
other groups go with other sets, and
these miscellaneous sets of principles conflict and clash and side-
swipe."

the Nashvillean, about half in earnest, "have no principles. Office is
all they want. They don't care how they get into it. It's immaterial to
them whether they scale a rain
spout and enter by way of an attic
window or crawl through a coal hole
and come up from the cellar. Later

the evident opinion of an over-
whelming majority of his Democratic fellow members was that he
demonstrated himself to be an abler
tactician than the administration.

It is complained of Byrns that he
is a conservative. Only moderately
so, I'd say. He isn't a radical, certainly. But neither has he ever
seemed to me to be a reactionary.

He has voted consistently with the
administration program, anyway.
The only thing he hasn't done is to
try to club his fellow Democratic
lawmakers, in instances where club-
bing obviously would not prove effective.

And when he has had to yield, he
has done it gracefully; not grouchy-
ly.

History Up-to-Date—Jan. 12, 1628.
—Charles Perrault was born in France.

He immortalized in literature the
most widely known stories in the
world, next to those of the Bible,
yet his name is virtually unknown.

Red Riding Hood," "Puss in Boots,"
"Cinderella," the children's form of
"Bluebeard" and other well-loved
tales that came in time to be erroneously identified with "Mother
Goose."

Jan. 12, 1746—Johann Heinrich
Pestalozzi was born in Switzerland,
destined to become a world wide influence in improvement of the mass
mind. "He had the deepest effect
on all branches of education, and
his influence is far from being exhausted," says a modern authority.

When Pestalozzi went to Paris
and did his best to interest Na-

On Court House Hill

There are 22 properties listed for sheriff sale at the February term of court. This is six less than were scheduled for the January term, although only 24 were sold. Yesterday was the last day for filing executions for the February term.

County commissioners have several tracts of land scattered over the county which in past years have been taken for taxes. A survey of this land will be made to see if there is any of it that is suitable for reforestation. If it is found that it can be used for that purpose pine trees may be planted as an RWD project.

Indications are that a number of the cases which have been listed for trial at common pleas court which convenes on next Monday will be settled. Attorneys have gone over the cases with the court and a list of those which will be tried by each judge has been made out. Settlement of cases results in a considerable saving of time for the court.

While surveys and maps have been made of New Castle and Ellwood City there is no map of the farms and other properties in Lawrence county. Such a map would be of great advantage to the county, but the expense of getting it up would be great if the county had to pay for it. There has been a suggestion that it be taken up as a RWD project. It would give work to engineers, attorneys and others. The state has made supposedly accurate surveys of the different highways in Lawrence county and these surveys could be taken as a nucleus around which to build a larger survey.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard has received from Paul Donnelly of Sharon, former Lawrence county boy, several groups of pictures taken at the Lincoln and Garfield school outing held at Lakewood Beach last summer. One group comprises all the women, another all the men, a third shows beauties at the bathing beach, and a fourth the ball club. The sheriff will be glad to show these pictures to any one interested.

Mortgages placed on record at the court house recently indicate that there is some loosening up of mortgage money, inability to secure which has been one of the deterring influences in the real estate market during the past two or three years. With bank interest reduced to 2 1/2 per cent those who have funds to invest are looking about for investments which will pay a higher rate of interest. While there have been some losses on mortgages which were placed at the peak of the boom previous to 1929, real estate values appear now to be thoroughly deflated, and there is very little if any risk in placing conservative mortgages on present real estate values. Real estate mortgages have always been considered the best security on earth and it would be difficult to find any other place where money can be placed with more safety than in mortgages at present day values.

Hayden Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, of East Reynolds street, has been meeting with great success as head coach of the West Orange, N. J., high school football team, according to a copy of a West Orange paper received by Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard. Hayden Evans is a graduate of the New Castle high school and also of Grove City College.

The paper tells about a banquet marking the windup of the eighth successful campaign of the football team under the regime of Coach Hayden Evans. The article says: "To say that West Orange team has been successful on the gridiron is putting it mildly. Under the directing hand of Coach Evans, West Orange has attained brilliant football heights. Successful?—It has been downright sensational. "Before Coach Evans took over the reins eight years ago West Orange had only a mediocre success, usually winning a game and losing one. But with the start of the Evans regime, West Orange has advanced rapidly, firmly establishing itself as one of the football powers of the state. Since Evans took over the reins, the Mountaineers have played 65 games, winning 46, losing 10, and tying 9. A final check shows Evans coached combines have won 82 per cent of their games during the past eight seasons.

The former Grove City star began coaching the Mountaineers in 1927. In that year the team won every game and the state championship for Group B schools. In the season just closed the Mountaineers were undisputed rulers of football in the Oranges, defeating all rivals for the championship. Also this year West Orange annexed its second state championship, tying with Linden and Englewood."

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., January 11: Four arrests on charges as follows, Drunkenness 2 and Violation of parking law 2.

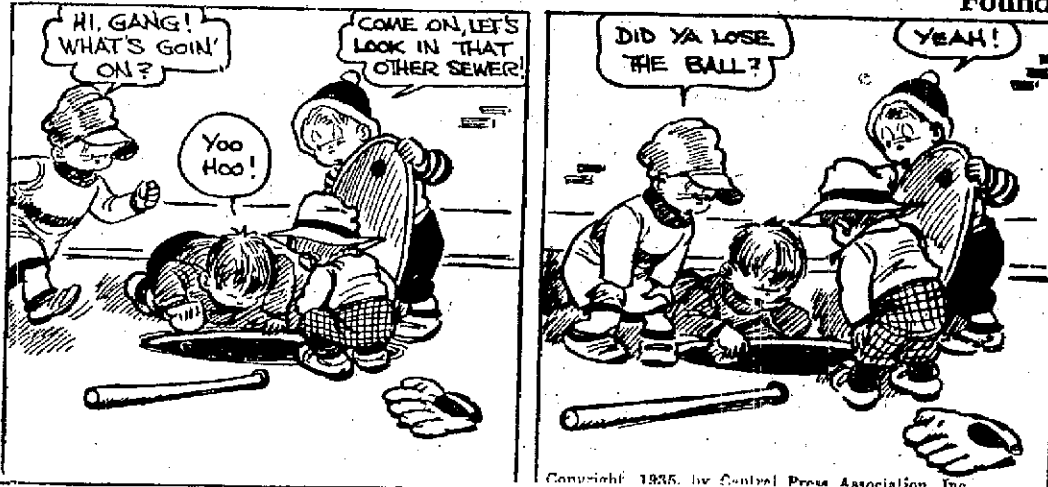

What would Mr. and Mrs. John Public do without Controller Wimer, Solicitor White and Mayor Mayne? This trio is the action triumvirate in city hall. They believe in saying what they think without talking it over with their advisers and dressing their words in wool. Another chap who by virtue of his position is fast becoming short of his shyness in uttering words for public consumption (before and after midnight) is Chief of police John F. Haven.

Policemen formed a committee several days ago and conferred with Mayor Mayne relative to the policemen each getting at least one day off each month. The policemen work 365 days, less a vacation period, each year. When they get a vacation the other fellow doubles his beat. Three hundred and sixty-five days of pounding a sidewalk sometimes makes John Law listless.

It is reported that within the near future appointments will be made to the Park commission. It is said that two and possibly more vacancies will be filled. The position is not a paid job. Instead it is a hard task and calls for men who are civic minded.

Reilly Gives Out Another Defense Tale

Says Woman Will Testify To Seeing Violet Sharpe With Blankets

GIRL MENTIONED LATER ENDED LIFE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—A 45-year old woman from Yonkers, N. Y., with an amazing story to tell of what she observed on the blustery night of March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped, will be called as a witness for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on trial for the murder of the child, Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, revealed today.

The woman is Mrs. Anna Bonesteel, who operates a lunch room on the Yonkers dock of the Alpine-Yonkers ferry. Reilly said she will tell how she saw Violet Sharpe, the temperamental maid at the Dwight Morrow home, come into the lunchroom the night of the kidnapping with two blankets over her arm, nervously waiting there until two men arrived to take her away in an automobile.

Committed Suicide
Miss Sharpe committed suicide in the Morrow mansion on June 10, 1932, when police came there to question her about her mysterious absence from the Morrow servants' quarters the night of the abduction. At the time of the kidnapping the Lindberghs were living at the Morrow home, except on weekends, when they spent at Hopewell, N. J. Mrs. Bonesteel will say the Sharpe girl came into the lunchroom at about 7:15 p. m., and waited restlessly until about 8:45 p. m., when two men slowly drove past in a dark sedan, stopping about 150 feet away. Miss Sharpe hastened out to join them and they drove away according to Mrs. Bonesteel's story.

major mysteries connected with the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation. Her whereabouts the night of the kidnapping has never been explained fully.

Reilly attached significance to the fact that in 1932 the Alpine-Yonkers ferry was the closest link between Westchester county, New York, and Englewood, N. J., where the Morrow estate is located.

"Mrs. Bonesteel's story will strengthen more than ever the suspicion against at least two persons other than Hauptmann in the kidnapping," Reilly declared. "Our evidence grows stronger all the time that the kidnapping was the job of a group of persons, all strangers to Hauptmann."

Reilly, who with the other three defense lawyers, is studying the state's handwriting exhibits in the state house at Trenton today, scoffed at the testimony of Albert Osborn, handwriting expert who said Hauptmann wrote the kidnap and ransom notes.

Deny Story
Hunterdon county Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, reached by telephone at Trenton, declared there was nothing to Mrs. Bonesteel's story. He said the state will show conclusively that Violet Sharpe was not in Yonkers the night of the kidnapping.

"We were informed by Yonkers police Mrs. Bonesteel would tell this story about Miss Sharpe," Hauck said. "But it is untrue. We are prepared to account for every minute of the Morrow maid's time the night of the kidnapping."

DEFENSE EXPERTS STUDY EXHIBITS OF HANDWRITING

suicide attempt. He is not allowed to have a tie nor a belt, and his food is served him on paper plates. Only in the courtroom is Hauptmann induced to make any comments. And that is because newspapermen sitting just back of him pop questions at him during recesses which he cannot easily duck. He has been friendly enough with reporters and gives the impression he would talk with them a bit were it not for the vigilance of defense lawyers, who invariably break in and prevent the defendant from expressing his views.

Study Handwriting
Today, over at the state capital of Trenton, handwriting experts for the defense studied the prosecution's array of handwriting exhibits. It was because of a request that the defense be given this opportunity that Justice Thomas W. Trenchard yesterday afternoon adjourned the trial until Monday morning.

On Monday Albert S. Osborn, 80-year-old handwriting expert, and a key witness for the state, will resume the stand and continue the devastating evidence he is giving the jury against Hauptmann. Osborn dealt a severe blow to the defense when he testified that in his opinion Hauptmann wrote all of the Lindbergh ransom notes, including the first one which was left on the window sill of the nursery on the night of March 1, 1932, when the baby was kidnapped.

Through this damaging testimony the state, for the first time, was able to put Hauptmann's hand in the Lindbergh home. One of the hardest things the state is up against is to prove to the jury that Hauptmann was at the scene of the crime. His alibi is that he was at his home in the Bronx, New York City, the night the baby was abducted.

Osborn, after testifying he had examined more than 100 examples of the proved handwriting of Hauptmann, and had compared them with the 14 ransom notes, was asked by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Langan if he had ample material to base a conclusion. He had, Langan wanted to know what his conclusion was, and Osborn replied:

All Written by Hauptmann
"My opinion is that the ransom notes were all written by the writer of the various papers signed 'Richard Hauptmann'."

Huge charts with magnified excerpts from the ransom notes on one side and words taken from Hauptmann's penmanship on the other, were placed on the wall back of the witness stand, only a few feet from the jury. And, with a pointer in his hand, Osborn indicated on these charts the various "striking similarities" he saw between the writings of Hauptmann and the penmanship on the ransom notes. The jury watched and listened with interest as the famous handwriting expert showed them that "H-T-E" was the common spelling of the word "the" by Hauptmann and by the writer of the ransom notes. Other spellings in both writings were "L-I-G-H-T" for "light" and "R-I-G-H-T" for "right."

Again and again Osborn pointed out peculiarities which he said linked the writings. Not only through the handwriting, but through the curious holes in the symbol on 11 of the ransom notes, the witness was able to say that the letters were of a certainty sent by the same person.

The testimony of Osborn was regarded by courtroom observers as of more intrinsic value to the state than much of the more dramatic testimony given by previous witnesses, and, for good measure, Attorney General David T. Wilentz put on the stand key witness Frank J. Wilson, United States treasury agent, who linked Hauptmann with the passage of more than $14,000 of the $50,000 ransom sum passed to "John" by Dr. John F. Condon in a Bronx cemetery April 2, 1932. Wilson also testified that, so far as he knew, not a single Lindbergh ransom bill had been recovered since Hauptmann was arrested last September 19. Defense lawyers were planning a vigorous attack on the state handwriting expert's testimony. They intend to put their own handwriting authorities on the stand to refute the contention that the writings now being exhibited to the jury were done by the same hand.

Reilly Gives Out Another Defense Tale

Says Woman Will Testify To Seeing Violet Sharpe With Blankets

GIRL MENTIONED LATER ENDED LIFE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—A 45-year old woman from Yonkers, N. Y., with an amazing story to tell of what she observed on the blustery night of March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped, will be called as a witness for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on trial for the murder of the child, Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, revealed today.

The woman is Mrs. Anna Bonesteel, who operates a lunch room on the Yonkers dock of the Alpine-Yonkers ferry. Reilly said she will tell how she saw Violet Sharpe, the temperamental maid at the Dwight Morrow home, come into the lunchroom the night of the kidnapping with two blankets over her arm, nervously waiting there until two men arrived to take her away in an automobile.

Committed Suicide

Miss Sharpe committed suicide in the Morrow mansion on June 10, 1932, when police came there to question her about her mysterious absence from the Morrow servants' quarters the night of the abduction. At the time of the kidnapping the Lindberghs were living at the Morrow home, except on weekends, which they spent at Hopewell.

Mrs. Bonesteel will say the Sharpe girl came into the lunchroom at about 7:15 p. m., and waited restlessly until about 8:45 p. m., when two men slowly drove past in a dark sedan, stopping about 150 feet away. Miss Sharpe hastened out to join them and they drove away according to Mrs. Bonesteel's story.

The suicide of Miss Sharpe, a 28-year old English girl, is one of the major mysteries connected with the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation. Her whereabouts the night of the kidnapping has never been explained fully.

Reilly attached significance to the fact that in 1932 the Alpine-Yonkers ferry was the closest link between Westchester county, New York, and Englewood, N. J., where the Morrow estate is located.

"Mrs. Bonesteel's story will strengthen more than ever the suspicion against at least two persons other than Hauptmann in the kidnapping," Reilly declared. "Our evidence grows stronger all the time that the kidnapping was the job of a group of persons, all strangers to Hauptmann."

Reilly, who with the other three defense lawyers, is studying the state's handwriting exhibits in the state house at Trenton today, scoffed at the testimony of Albert Osborn, handwriting expert who said Hauptmann wrote the kidnap and ransom notes.

Deny Story

Hunterdon county Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, reached by telephone at Trenton, declared there was nothing to Mrs. Bonesteel's story. He said the state will show conclusively that Violet Sharpe was not in Yonkers the night of the kidnapping.

"We were informed by Yonkers police Mrs. Bonesteel would tell this story about Miss Sharpe," Hauck said. "But it is untrue. We are prepared to account for every minute of the Morrow maid's time the night of the kidnapping."

suicide attempt. He is not allowed to have a tie nor a belt, and his food is served to him on paper plates.

Only in the courtroom is Hauptmann induced to make any comments. And that is because the papermen sitting just back of him pose questions at him during recesses which he cannot easily duck. He has been friendly enough with reporters and gives the impression he would talk with them a bit were it not for the vigilance of defense lawyers, who invariably break in and prevent the defendant from expressing his views.

Study Handwriting

Today, over at the state capitol of Trenton, handwriting experts for the defense studied the prosecution's array of handwriting exhibits. It was because of a request that the defense be given this opportunity that Justice Thomas W. Trenchard yesterday afternoon adjourned the trial until Monday morning.

On Monday Albert S. Osborn, 80-year-old handwriting expert, and a key witness for the state, will resume the stand and continue the devastating evidence he is giving the jury against Hauptmann. Osborn dealt a severe blow to the defense when he testified that in his opinion Hauptmann wrote all of the Lindbergh ransom notes, including the first one which was left on the window sill of the nursery on the night of March 1, 1932, when the baby was kidnapped.

Through this damaging testimony the state, for the first time, was able to put Hauptmann's hand in the Lindbergh ransom. One of the hardest things the state is up against is to prove to the jury that Hauptmann was at the scene of the crime. His alibi is that he was at his home in the Bronx, New York City, the night the baby was abducted.

Osborn, after testifying he had examined more than 100 examples of the proved handwriting of Hauptmann, and had compared them with the 14 ransom notes, was asked by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan if he had ample material to base a conclusion. He had. Lanigan wanted to know what his conclusion was, and Osborn replied:

All Written by Hauptmann
"My opinion is that the ransom notes were all written by the writer of the various papers signed 'Richard Hauptmann.'"

Huge charts with magnified excerpts from the ransom notes on one side and words taken from Hauptmann's penmanship on the other, were placed on the wall back of the witness stand, only a few feet from the jury. And, with a pointer in his hand, Osborn indicated on these charts the various "striking similarities" he saw between the writings of Hauptmann and the penmanship on the ransom notes. The jury watched and listened with interest as the famous handwriting expert showed them that "H-T-E" was the common spelling of the word "the" by Hauptmann and by the writer of the ransom notes. Other spellings in both writings were "T-I-G-H-T" for "light" and "R-I-G-H-T" for "right."

Again and again Osborn pointed out peculiarities which he said linked the writings. Not only through the handwriting, but through the curious holes in the symbol on 11 of the ransom notes, the witness was able to say that the letters were of a certainty sent by the same person.

The testimony of Osborn was regarded by courtroom observers as of more intrinsic value to the state than much of the more dramatic testimony given by previous witnesses, and, for good measure, Attorney General David T. Wilentz put on the stand key witness Frank J. Wilson, United States treasury agent, who linked Hauptmann with the passage of more than $14,000 of the $50,000 ransom sum passed to "John" by Dr. John F. Condon in a Bronx cemetery April 2, 1932. Wilson also testified that, so far as he knew, not a single Lindbergh ransom bill had been recovered since Hauptmann was arrested last September 19. Defense lawyers were planning a vigorous attack on the state handwriting expert's testimony. They intend to put their own handwriting authorities on the stand to refute the contention that the writings now being exhibited to the jury were done by the same hand.

Reilly Gives Out Another Defense Tale

Says Woman Will Testify To Seeing Violet Sharpe With Blankets

GIRL MENTIONED LATER ENDED LIFE

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12.—A 45-year old woman from Yonkers, N. Y., with an amazing story to tell of what she observed on the blustery night of March 1, 1932, when the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped, will be called as a witness for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, on trial for the murder of the child, Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense counsel, revealed today.

The woman is Mrs. Anna Bonesteel, who operates a lunch room on the Yonkers dock of the Alpine-Yonkers ferry. Reilly said she will tell how she saw Violet Sharpe, the temperamental maid at the Dwyer Morrow home, come into the lunch room the night of the kidnapping with two blankets over her arm, nervously waiting there until two men arrived to take her away in an automobile.

Committed Suicide

Miss Sharpe committed suicide in the Morrow mansion on June 10, 1932, when police came there to question her about her mysterious absence from the Morrow servants' quarters the night of the abduction. At the time of the kidnapping the Lindberghs were living at the Morrow home, except on weekends, which they spent at Hopewell.

Mrs. Bonesteel will say the Sharpe girl came into the lunchroom at about 7:15 p. m., and waited restlessly until about 8:45 p. m., when two men slowly drove past in a dark sedan, stopping about 150 feet away.

Miss Sharpe hastened out to join them and they drove away according to Mrs. Bonesteel's story.

major mysteries connected with the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation. Her whereabouts the night of the kidnapping has never been explained fully.

Reilly attached significance to the fact that in 1932 the Alpine-Yonkers ferry was the closest link between Westchester county, New York, and Englewood, N. J., where the Morrow estate is located.

"Mrs. Bonesteel's story will strengthen more than ever the suspicion against at least two persons other than Hauptmann in the kidnapping," Reilly declared. "Our evidence grows stronger all the time that the kidnapping was the job of a group of persons, all strangers to Hauptmann."

Reilly, who with the other three defense lawyers, is studying the state's handwriting exhibits in the state house at Trenton today, scoffed at the testimony of Albert Osborn, handwriting expert who said Hauptmann wrote the kidnap ransom notes.

Hunterdon county Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck, reached by telephone at Trenton, declared there was nothing to Mrs. Bonesteel's story. He said the state will show conclusively that Violet Sharpe was not in Yonkers the night of the kidnapping.

"We were informed by Yonkers police Mrs. Bonesteel would tell this story about Miss Sharpe," Hauck said. "But it is untrue. We are prepared to account for every minute of the Morrow maid's time the night of the kidnapping."

Today, over at the state capitol of Trenton, handwriting experts for the defense studied the prosecution's array of handwriting exhibits. It was because of a request that the defense be given this opportunity that Justice Thomas W. Trenchard yesterday afternoon adjourned the trial until Monday morning.

On Monday Albert S. Osborn, 80-year-old handwriting expert, and a key witness for the state, will resume the stand and continue the devastating evidence he is giving the jury against Hauptmann. Osborn dealt a severe blow to the defense when he testified that in his opinion Hauptmann wrote all of the Lindbergh ransom notes, including the first one which was left on the window sill of the nursery on the night of March 1, 1932, when the baby was kidnapped.

Through this damaging testimony the state, for the first time, was able to put Hauptmann's hand in the Lindbergh home. One of the hardest things the state is up against is to prove to the jury that Hauptmann was at the scene of the crime. His alibi is that he was at his home in the Bronx, New York City, the night the baby was abducted.

Osborn, after testifying he had examined more than 100 examples of the proved handwriting of Hauptmann, and had compared them with the 14 ransom notes, was asked by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan if he had ample material to base a conclusion. He had. Lanigan wanted to know what his conclusion was, and Osborn replied:

All Written by Hauptmann
"My opinion is that the ransom notes were all written by the writer of the various papers signed 'Richard Hauptmann.'"

Huge charts with magnified excerpts from the ransom notes on one side and words taken from Hauptmann's penmanship on the other, were placed on the wall back of the witness stand, only a few feet from the jury. And, with a pointer in his hand, Osborn indicated on these charts the various "striking similarities" he saw between the writings of Hauptmann and the penmanship on the ransom notes.

The jury watched and listened with interest as the famous handwriting expert showed them that "H-T-E" was the common spelling of the word "the" by Hauptmann and by the writer of the ransom notes. Other spellings in both writings were "L-I-G-H-T" for "light" and "R-I-G-H-T" for "right."

Again and again Osborn pointed out peculiarities which he said linked the writings. Not only through the handwriting, but through the curious holes in the symbol on 11 of the ransom notes, the witness was able to say that the letters were of a certainty sent by the same person.

The testimony of Osborn was regarded by courtroom observers as of more intrinsic value to the state than much of the more dramatic testimony given by previous witnesses, and, for good measure, Attorney General David T. Wilentz put on the stand key witness Frank J. Wilson, United States treasury agent, who linked Hauptmann with the passage of more than $14,000 of the $50,000 ransom sum passed to "John" by Dr. John F. Condon in a Bronx cemetery April 2, 1932. Wilson also testified that, so far as he knew, not a single Lindbergh ransom bill had been received since Hauptmann was arrested last September 19.

Defense lawyers were planning a vigorous attack on the state's handwriting expert's testimony. They intended to put their own handwriting authorities on the stand to refute the contention that the writings now being exhibited to the jury were done by the same hand.

What Hauptmann Jury Will See As Crime Is Reenacted

Cutaway diagram of Lindbergh home from South, showing all events of night baby was kidnapped and slain. No. 1. Mrs. Lindbergh left baby in nursery about 7:30, going to living-room (2) until arrival of husband about 8:25. Quickest access to garage, in this wing of the house, is indicated by dotted line showing course taken by Lindbergh to living-room. As drawing shows, there are various ways of reaching this rear doorway. Lindbergh, after greeting wife, went to upstairs bathroom to "wash up" and returned to dining-room (3) where he and wife dined. At 9 p. m., they went to living-room adjoining, sitting at (4) until about 9:20. It was then Lindbergh heard wood-cracking sound that seemed to come from kitchen. White line indicates direction from which, if state contention of ladder breaking is correct, sound actually came. The distance is 30-35 feet. Couple next went upstairs (to 5) remaining until 9:35. Lindbergh took bath and returned to lower floor, where he read at library desk (6) until Betty Gow reported child missing at 10 p. m. His position was at window immediately below window in nursery through which child was supposedly taken. Meanwhile, in kitchen (7) Mrs. Whatley, butler's wife, made lemonade for Mrs. Lindbergh. For considerable part of evening, she testified, Betty Gow was with her. Servant's quarters above garage (13) are indicated. Mr. and Mrs. Whatley found Lindbergh at (8) entrance to nursery (9) with rifle. Arrow indicates window through which baby was supposedly taken. Other points: 11—bedroom, 12—bathroom, 14—another bath; 15—bedroom; 16—front stairs; 17—doors to living-room which Lindbergh testified were open, permitting him to see if anyone used stairs; 18—up of nursery; A—baby's crib; B—where ransom note found; C—window below which Lindbergh was sitting; (D) is the undisturbed suitcase before the window and the chest on which it rested; (E) mudstained footprints and (F) casement window, facing south, that had been left open; (G) screen used to protect baby from draught and (H) doorway leading into hall; (I) is the closet door and (J) another doorway to hall. (K) is the baby's bathroom and (L) position of kidnaper's ladder.

Kidnaper's Handwriting Plays Important Part as Evidence During Trial

Hauptmann's actual signature (on application for auto license) is compared here with writing in ransom note and that on envelopes sent presumably by the kidnaper.

Made World Figure by Words

New and exclusive posed portrait (above) of Dr. John F. Condon, 75-year-old Bronx schoolmaster who was made a world head-line figure by the words of doom he bespoke in trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, at Flemington, N. J. In striking contrast is lower photo, showing him happy over outpointing defense lawyers as they sought to break down his testimony. (Central Press)

Grave Words Among Graves Portend Grave

If jury accepts testimony of Dr. John F. Condon after searching cross-examination of defense attorneys, Bruno Richard Hauptmann is expected to go to the grave largely because of conversations Dr. Condon declared he had with Hauptmann among graves in Woodlawn cemetery (below) and at St. Raymond's cemetery (above), where ransom money changed hands. Defense is now endeavoring to lift accusing finger Condon laid upon Hauptmann who prosecution says accepted money over cemetery fence as depicted at top. (Central Press)

Butz Is Named Red Cross Head

ANNUAL REPORTS SHOW ACTIVITIES

Paul Butz, veteran member of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, was named chairman for the coming year at the annual meeting of the Chapter, held in their rooms on South Mercer St. Friday afternoon. Mr. Butz served as a Y. M. C. A. Field secretary during the World War and was overseas. He has been a member of the executive committee since his return.

The other officers named by the chapter were Mrs. David H. Kay, first vice chairman; Wylie D. Cooper, second vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Conli secretary and Norman E. Clark treasurer.

The report of John C. Syling, roll call chairman, and Alex McCready, vice chairman, showed that one of the best roll calls in recent years was held during the month of November. The total number of members reported to the first of the year was 787, with a few additional turned in since that date. The bulk of the receipts from the Roll Call, amounting to over $900 will remain here for the use of the chapter.

The reports of the various departments of the chapter which include the general activities, nursing service, first aid service, life saving, home hygiene, etc., showed that the chapter has never been as active in service to the community at any time since the end of the World War.

These various reports in detail will be published later. One significant fact was brought out in the report of Jack Hulme, chairman of Life Saving, in which it was brought out that not a single fatality occurred during the swimming season last summer. The local chapter has made life saving and first aid, two of its principal activities here, and the years of training are beginning to bear fruit.

Plumbing Fixtures To Be Purchased For New Building At Stadium

Plumbing fixtures necessary to the new team rooms and toilet rooms installed at Tiggart stadium will be purchased by the New Castle school board immediately and the improvement at the stadium completed. Action authorizing this was had Friday night at the board meeting.

The cost of the fixtures will be approximately $450 according to an estimate by S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings and grounds. These fixtures will be installed by RWD labor and will finish the project.

In a statement furnished the board Friday night, A. W. Bauman, chairman of the building committee, showed that the team and toilet rooms had used 120,000 brick, all from the old Martin Gariz building, had used second-hand material on hand in the amount of $1,680, had used new materials to the amount of $1,457.35, and estimated that the labor on the job represented about $10,000.

Stolen Loot Is Found In Mine

Wampum Man One Of Three Suspects Being Held In Jail

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 12.—State and city police and county detectives recovered, in an old abandoned coal mine in Big Beaver township today, several hundred dollars worth of tools and machinery and believe they have solved a number of puzzling robberies.

Daniel Breit, 27, of Beaver Falls, Fred Fabritius, 23, of East Palestine, O., and Joseph Pauleideh, 23, of Wampum, are in the city jail here pending an investigation.

Equipment and tools stolen from the Penn Bridge company plant here and from clay and coal mines near Darlington, were found in the mine. How the thieves carried the machinery through the mud and swamp to the mine was a bigger mystery to the officers than their recovery.

EMERGENCY LIGHT SYSTEM IN NEED OF SOME REPAIRS

After nine years of readiness for service in the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, the emergency lighting system there is in need of repairs. Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds told the New Castle School Board Friday night. The system is one of batteries and with new plates and parts could be used for another seven years, he estimates.

"We have not been called upon to use the emergency system," said Mr. Ligo because the regular light lines have not failed in that time. However we are required to have an emergency system installed and in the Senior High School we have a Kohler system which uses no batteries except for starting motor.

The board authorized Mr. Ligo to get prices on sufficient plates and parts to repair the set and also to ascertain the cost of a new Kohler set for the building.

BELL EMPLOYEE HAS SERVICE BIRTHDAY

John C. McLaughlin, of the New Castle plant department of the Bell Telephone company, will complete 21 years of continuous service with the company on January 29, when he will become a member of their veteran's organization.

Butz Is Named Red Cross Head

ANNUAL REPORTS SHOW ACTIVITIES

Paul Butz, veteran member of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, was named chairman for the coming year at the annual meeting of the Chapter, held in their rooms on South Mercer St., Friday afternoon. Mr. Butz served as a Y. M. C. A. Field secretary during the World War and was overseas. He has been a member of the executive committee since his return.

The other officers named by the chapter were Mrs. David H. Kay, first vice chairman; Wylie D. Cooper, second vice chairman; Mrs. Mary Conant secretary and Norman E. Clark treasurer.

The report of John C. Sylling, roll call chairman, and Alex McCready, vice chairman, showed that one of the best roll calls in recent years was held during the month of November. The total number of members reported to the first of the year was 767, with a few additional turned in since that date. The bulk of the receipts from the Roll Call, amounting to over $900 will remain here for the use of the chapter.

The reports of the various departments of the chapter which include the general activities, nursing service, first aid service, life saving, home hygiene, etc., showed that the chapter has never been as active in service to the community at any time since the end of the World War.

These various reports in detail will be published later. One significant fact was brought out in the report of Jack Rühne, chairman of Life Saving, in which it was brought out that not a single fatality occurred during the swimming season last summer. The local Chapter has made life saving and first aid, two of its principal activities here, and the years of training are beginning to bear fruit.

Plumbing Fixtures To Be Purchased For New Building At Stadium

Plumbing fixtures necessary to the new team rooms and toilet rooms installed at Taggart stadium will be purchased by the New Castle school board immediately and the improvement at the stadium completed. Action authorizing this was had Friday night at the board meeting.

The cost of the fixtures will be approximately $450 according to an estimate by S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings and grounds. These fixtures will be installed by RWD labor and will finish the project.

In a statement furnished the board Friday night, A. W. Bauman, chairman of the building committee, showed that the team and toilet rooms had cost $120,000 brick, all from the old Martin Ganz building, had used second-hand material on hand in the amount of $1,680, had used new materials to the amount of $1,457.35, and estimated that the labor on the job represented about $10,000.

Stolen Loot Is Found In Mine

Wampum Man One Of Three Suspects Being Held In Jail

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 12.—State and city police and county detectives recovered in an old abandoned coal mine in Big Beaver township today, several hundred dollars worth of tools and machinery and believe they have solved a number of puzzling robberies.

Daniel Breit, 27, of Beaver Falls, Fred Fabritius, 23, of East Palestine, O., and Joseph Faustich, 23, of Wampum, are in the city jail here pending an investigation.

Equipment and tools stolen from the Penn Bridge company plant here and from clay and coal mines near Darlington, were found in the mine. How the thieves carried the machinery through the mud and swamp to the mine was a bigger mystery to the officers than their recovery.

EMERGENCY LIGHT SYSTEM IN NEED OF SOME REPAIRS

After nine years of readiness for service in the Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, the emergency lighting system there is in need of repairs. Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds told the New Castle School Board Friday night. The system is one of batteries and with new plates and parts could be used for another seven years he estimates.

"We have not been called upon to use the emergency system" said Mr. Ligo because the regular light lines have not failed in that time. However we are required to have an emergency system installed and in the Senior High School we have a Kohler system which uses no batteries except for a starting motor.

The board authorized Mr. Ligo to get prices on sufficient plates and parts to repair the set and also to ascertain the cost of a new Kohler set for the building.

Today

$40 A Month.
What Gold?
A $374,000,000 Thirst.
In Doubt, Convict.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WASHINGTON reports that President Roosevelt's message to Congress about pensions for the old will suggest "ONLY" $40 a month. The Washington correspondent who says "ONLY" does not know that forty dollars a month would mean to millions of old people whose lives are made bitter not by deprivation, not by poverty, hunger, or cold, but by the fact that they depend upon the cold charity of others particularly on the charity of relatives.

Give $40 a month to the old that are dependent and you will bring happiness into the last years of millions of lives, and that would be worthy of a great nation.

A KIND HEARTED gentleman has been roaming the country advocating $200 a month pension for everybody over sixty. That would cost some forty thousand million dollars a year, more money than even this country could pay, ten times what we lent to the nations in Europe. The suggestion is kind hearted, but senseless.

OUR HIGH and all-power Supreme Court is still discussing the question of gold payments where contracts, mortgages, leases, bonds call for it. The new era has said to Congress:

"Never mind about those gold payments, don't bother about contracts. Just pay with any kind of money."

What a shock it now the Supreme Court should say: "Those that agreed to pay in gold of equal weight and fineness must do so."

But could the Supreme Court reasonably order Americans to pay in gold when their government says to them:

"You may not have any gold." How would the Supreme Court arrange that?

THE THIRST of the people means profit to the government. Uncle Sam, during 1934, collected an average of more than $1,000,000 a day in liquor taxes, a total amount of $374,566,232.

Beer alone yielded $200,000,000; spirits distilled in America, $121,000,000; imported spirits, $15,000,000; imported wines $6,000,000. Men will pay for what they want and endure taxation cheerfully.

IT IS EASY to understand why tens of millions follow the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the kidnapping and killing of the Lindbergh baby with such intense interest.

The trial is a mystery in itself, gradually unwound in court like the chapters in a detective story—holds public attention, the horrible nature of the crime increasing the interest tenfold.

HAUPTMANN'S lawyers will not find it easy to reply successfully to deliberate statements under oath, connecting Hauptmann directly with the crime and they will face this situation. Ordinarily in a murder case, the jurymen with no especial interest in the victim, say to themselves:

"If I have any doubt as to the accused man's guilt, I shall acquit him."

In this statement, resentment against the crime and sympathy for the victims are so intense that a juror would say to himself, perhaps unconsciously:

"If I have any doubt as to the innocence of the accused, I shall vote guilty. I do not want to run the slightest risk of acquitting him, if he is guilty."

NEVER ARE able, philosophically, to make the old advice: "Let the other man walk the floor."

Harry Sternberg, forty-one years old, of New York, wrote a note advising his wife never to gamble, expressed regret that he must leave

What Gold?
A $374,000,000 Thirst.
In Doubt, Convict.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WASHINGTON reports that President Roosevelt's message to Congress about pensions for the old will suggest "only" $40 a month. The Washington correspondent who says "only" does not know what forty dollars a month would mean to millions of old people whose lives are made bitter not by deprivation, not by poverty, hunger, or cold, but by the fact that they depend upon the cold charity of others particularly on the charity of relatives.

Give $40 a month to the old that are dependent and you will bring happiness into the last years of millions of lives, and that would be worthy of a great nation.

A KIND HEARTED gentleman has been roaming the country advocating $200 a month pensions for everybody over sixty. That would cost some forty thousand million dollars a year, more money than even this country could pay, ten times what we lent to the nations in Europe. The suggestion is kind hearted, but senseless.

OUR HIGH and all-power Supreme Court is still discussing the question of gold payments where contracts, mortgages, leases, bonds call for it. The new era has said to Congress:

"Never mind about those gold payments, don't bother about contracts. Just pay with any kind of money."

What a shock if now the Supreme Court should say:

"Those that agreed to pay in gold of equal weight and fineness must do so."

But could the Supreme Court reasonably order Americans to pay in gold when their government says to them:

"You may not have any gold."

How would the Supreme Court arrange that?

THE THIRST of the people means profit to the government. Uncle Sam, during 1934, collected an average of more than $1,000,000 a day in liquor taxes, a total amount of $374,506,232. Beer alone yielded $200,000,000; spirits distilled in America, $121,000,000; imported spirits, $15,000,000; imported wines $6,000,000. Men will pay for what they want and endure taxation cheerfully.

IT IS EASY to understand why tens of million follow the trial of Bruno Hauptmann for the kidnapping and killing of the Lindbergh baby with such intense interest.

The trial is a mystery in itself, gradually unwound in court like the chapters in a detective story, holds public attention, the horrible nature of the crime increasing the interest tenfold.

HAUPTMANN'S lawyers will not find it easy to reply successfully to deliberate statements under oath, connecting Hauptmann directly with the crime, and they will face this situation. Ordinarily in a murder case, the jurymen with no special interest in the victim, say to themselves:

"If I have any doubt as to the accused man's guilt, I shall acquit him."

In this statement, resentment against the crime and sympathy for the victims are so intense that a juror would say to himself, perhaps unconsciously:

"If I have any doubt as to the innocence of the accused, I shall vote guilty. I do not want to run the slightest risk of acquitting him, if he is guilty."

WER ARE able, philosophically, to take the old advice:

"Let the other man walk the floor."

Four Of Titans Out Of Lineup

Westminster Meets Waynesburg Tonight With Changed Lineup

ILLNESS CRIPPLES BLUE AND WHITE FIVE

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Minus the services of four members of the squad due to illness, Coach John Lawther's Westminster college basketball team faces Frank Wolf's Waynesburg college Yellow-jackets on the home floor in one of the most important games of the season.

Sweeney, Leyshock, Rudich and Bachus are the four men who will not be available, and as a result, Lawther, who has also been sick during the week, will be forced to use Willis and Krivosch at forward, Bennett at center and Hunneke and Wilhelm at guard. This combination will, it is thought, be a good one, but there will be only two substitutes available.

The Jackets have played two contests during the week, but will have more men available than the Titans for tonight's game. With McCracken, veteran star, as a nucleus, Wolf has a team which will probably cause Westminster considerable trouble.

Waynesburg will probably use Grasha and Boudin at forward, Brown at center and McCracken and Dzyonik at guard. The Jackets played Geneva last night at Beaver Falls.

Probably lineups:

Westminster: Waynesburg: Willis, F. Grasha, F. Krivosch, F. Boudin, C. Bennett, C. Brown, F. Hunneke, G. McCracken, G. Wilhelm, G. Dzyonik, G. Reference: Howie Campbell, Geneva. Game starts at 8:15.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock sharp the New Castle High School "Red Hurricane" football team, Class AA W. P. I. A. L. champions, coaches, student managers and newspapermen, will sit down to another of those famous dinners at the Castleton, with Tom Boyle, Castleton manager, as host.

This is an annual affair, and the boys who chase the pigskin all during the fall look forward to an evening's evening at the dinner table with Tom Boyle providing just what it takes to appease the most fastidious of opposites, and no matter how healthy. Just what the menu will be is not known, but you can bet that a group of about 25 or 30 hungry individuals will sit down at the tables.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

In an abbreviated battle the lanky doubles combination of William T. Tilden and Ellsworth Vines defeated George M. Lott and Lester Stiefen, former amateur world champions 9-7, 7-5 at Washington last night. Tilden and Vines applied pressure in the pinches and were never close to defeat.

Joe Louis, Detroit, scored a technical knockout over Hans Birkle, Germany, in the tenth round at Pittsburgh last night. The fight previously was so hot but in the last frame the Detroit heavyweight let loose with a barrage of blows and the referee stopped the fight at Hans request.

One of the fights between the better class of fights occurred between Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., and Harry Dubinsky of Chicago, at New York. The Chicago fighter lost the decision. Peter Hayes, New York, outpointed Lew Feldman in 10 rounds and Leonard Del Genio of New York knocked out Frankie Wallace of Cleveland in the sixth round.

Tenth annual Los Angeles open golf tourney got under way today with a field of 138.

ENTRANTS AT CLEVELAND Coach Norman Buckingham took the Eintracht girls and boys basketball teams to Cleveland today for a battle with the Cleveland West teams in the Saxon floor league. The Eintracht hope to break their losing streak tonight.

We now have machines to do almost everything except the dirty work.

THE SPORT PATROL

BY JOHN J. MAKER, JR.

TWENTY QUESTIONS

How many times have you read over and over again about common incidents of sport, yet if you were asked to answer a few questions dealing with every-day knowledge you would be unable to do so? Most of the time a few direct questions result in the discovery that many incidents usually taken for granted really escape the memory quite easily.

Here is a questionnaire dealing with occurrences that have been quite generally known at some time during the past few years. Don't be discouraged if your average isn't so good. While most of the questions may look easy, you will find that they can easily escape your memory. If you get 12 of 20 correct you're doing all right.

1. What nationality is Henry Cotton, British open golf champion?

New Wilmington High Takes First Place In County League With 36 To 22 Win

MINNER-MERCER STARS OF GAME

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—New Wilmington High School took first place in the Lawrence County High School League last night at the local floor by a 36 to 22 upset of the heretofore unbeaten Bessemer High quintet. The Eagleson coached machine staged an up-bill fight to take the victory. Minner was the outstanding star of the game with 13 points, while Mercer and Eagleson played fine basketball.

At the end of the first period the Bessemer team held an 8 to 4 lead, but this was soon wiped out in the second period and New Wilmington led at the half 12 to 11. In the third stanza the College Towners ran wild to score 12 more points against seven for the visitors, and it was 24 to 16. In the final period New Wilmington annexed 12 more points and allowed Bessemer but six points.

Melech and Throop were the scoring stars in the Bessemer lineup, with Shoup playing a fine game at guard.

In the girls game the Bessemer girls won handsily over the New Wilmington ladies.

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Minus the services of four members of the squad due to illness, Coach John Lawther's Westminster college basketball team faces Frank Wolf's Waynesburg college Yellow-jackets on the home floor in one of the most important games of the season.

Sweeney, Leyshock, Rudich and Bachus are the four men who will not be available, and, as a result, Lawther, who has also been sick during the week, will be forced to use Willis and Krivosch at forward, Bennett at center and Hunneke and Wilhelm at guard. This combination will, it is thought, be a good one, but there will be only two substitutes available.

The Jackets have played two contests during the week, but will have more men available than the Titans for tonight's game. With McCracken, veteran star, as a nucleus, Wolf has a team which will probably cause Westminster considerable trouble.

Waynesburg will probably use Grasha and Bouldin at forward, Brown at center and McCracken and Dzonik at guard. The Jackets played Geneva last night at Beaver Falls.

Probably lineups:

Westminster: Willis, F.; Grasha, F.; Krivosch, F.; Bennett, C.; Hunneke, G.; McCracken, G.; Wilhelm, G.; Dzonik, G.; Referee, Howdie Campbell. Geneva: umpire, Lindsay Montgomery. Geneva. Game starts at 8:15.

Most of the time a few direct questions result in the discovery that many incidents usually taken for granted really escape the memory quite easily.

Here is a questionnaire dealing with occurrences that have been quite generally known at some time during the past few years. Don't be discouraged if your average isn't so good. While most of the questions may look easy, you will find that they can easily escape your memory. If you get 12 of 20 correct you're doing all right.

TWENTY QUESTIONS

How many times have you read over and over again about common incidents of sport, yet if you were asked to answer a few questions dealing with every-day knowledge, you would be unable to do so? Most of the time a few direct questions result in the discovery that many incidents usually taken for granted really escape the memory quite easily.

Here is a questionnaire dealing with occurrences that have been quite generally known at some time during the past few years. Don't be discouraged if your average isn't so good. While most of the questions may look easy, you will find that they can easily escape your memory. If you get 12 of 20 correct you're doing all right.

Shenango High Wins Thriller

Shenango Keeps League Lead
With 25 To 23 Victory In
Three Extra Periods

Shenango high school basketball team kept its lead in the Lawrence county high school basketball race last night at the Mt. Jackson high floor by taking one of the most thrilling victories of recent years 25 to 23 in three extra periods.

Shenango's slate is still clean in the county league race thanks to young Joe Tanner who flipped in the winning field goal in the final seconds of the third extra-session. The Raneymen played a bangup game.

The regular game ended 20-20. In the first extra-period both teams tallied three points. In the second extra-period either of the teams scored, and finally it was decided to play until one team won and Shenango was in the money when Tanner shot his famous field goal.

The Shenango high girls defeated the Mt. Jackson high team in the preliminary game.

The prize awarded Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mack for the prize waltz, was donated by Jack Gerson.

Tuscano Stars For New Castle High; Cole Is
Brilliant For Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—In a thrilling basketball game as anyone could hope to see, New Castle High school nosed out Ellwood City High 24-23 in the dying moments of the game last night at Lincoln gym.

The two evenly matched teams fought a close game throughout. The last quarter was replete with action and excitement as the lead switched hands often, and the score deadlocked several times. The locals displayed a remarkable degree of accuracy from the foul line accounting for 9 out of 13 free shots, against New Castle's 6 out of 20. The red and black outscored Ellwood from the court 9-1.

Ellwood jumped to a 6-4 lead in the opening period and added a point to this in the ensuing period when the score read 12-9 for Ellwood. It was early in the third quarter that the locals suffered a hard blow when Bill Cole, star forward, was ejected from the game because of four personal fouls. It was soon after this that the invaders launched an offensive that gave them 20-17 at the close of the third period.

At the resumption of rivalries in the first quarter the Benedictines soon made it known that the ball game was still doubtful. Kraynak, regular center was also taken out of the game early in this period via DeCaprio and a long shot by Tuscano gave the visitors a 3 point lead with about two minutes of play left. Luxemburg shot this down with a shot from mid-floor. Captain Robuck had two opportunities to tie and win the game but mis-fired on two foul shots. The crowd was frantic as Hughes made a shot from mid-floor to place Ellwood ahead 25-24, but Referee Rhodes ruled that the timer's closing whistle had blown before the ball left his hands.

Tuscano and Carik played a fine game for the red and black, while Cole, Captain Robuck and Marcus were outstanding for Ellwood.

Reserves Lose
In the preliminary game the Ellwood High Reserves lost a hard fought contest to the New Castle High Reserves by a 20-16 score. It was close throughout. Adams and Small were the victor's chief threat. Pishonier and Young were the best for the Ellwood Reserves.

Three Extra Periods

Shenango high school basketball team kept its lead in the Lawrence county high school basketball race last night at the Mt. Jackson high floor by taking one of the most thrilling victories of recent years 25 to 23 in three extra-periods. Shenango's slate is still clean in the county league race thanks to young Joe Tanner who flipped in the winning field goal in the final seconds of the third extra-session. The Raneymen played a bangup game. The regular game ended 20-20. In the first extra-period both teams tallied three points. In the second extra-period either of the teams scored, and finally it was decided to play until one team won and Shenango was in the money when Tanner shot his famous field goal. The Shenango high girls defeated the Mt. Jackson high team in the preliminary game.

Ellwood Loses Thrilling Game To New Castle

Bridenbaughmen Eke Out 24-23 Victory In Dying Moments At Lincoln Gym

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—In a thrilling basketball game as anyone could hope to see, New Castle High School nosed out Ellwood City High 24-23 in the dying moments of the game last night at Lincoln gym.

The two evenly matched teams fought a close game throughout. The last quarter was replete with action and excitement as the lead switched hands often, and the score deadlocked several times. The locals displayed a remarkable degree of accuracy from the foul line accounting for 9 out of 13 free shots, against New Castle's 6 out of 20. The red and black outscored Ellwood from the court 9-7.

Ellwood jumped to a 5-4 lead in the opening period and added a point to this in the ensuing period when the score read 12-9 for Ellwood. It was early in the third quarter that the locals suffered a hard blow when Bill Cole, star forward, was ejected from the game because of four personal fouls. It was soon after this that the invaders launched an offensive that gave them 20-17 edge at the close of the third period.

At the resumption of play in the final chapter the Benedictmen made it known that the ball game was still doubtful. Kravak, regular center was also taken out of the game early in this period via the same route as Cole. A foul by DeCaprio and a long shot by Tuscano gave the visitors a 3 point lead with about two minutes of play left. Kravak cut this down with a shot from the ball key. Ellwood had two opportunities to tie and win the game but mis-fired on two foul shots. The crowd was frantic as Hughes made a shot from mid-floor to place Ellwood ahead 25-24, but Referee Rhodes ruled that the timer's closing whistle had blown before the ball left his hands.

Tuscano and Garik played a fine game for the red and black, while Cole, Captain Robuck and Marcus were outstanding for Ellwood.

Reserves Lose
In the preliminary game the Ellwood High Reserves lost a hard fought contest to the New Castle High Reserves by a 20-16 score. It was close throughout. Adams and Pishonier were the victor's chief threats. Pishonier and Young were the best for the Ellwood Reserves.

Shenango Keeps League Lead
With 25 To 23 Victory In
Three Extra Periods

Shenango high school basketball team kept its lead in the Lawrence county high school basketball race last night at the Mt. Jackson high floor by taking one of the most thrilling victories of recent years 25 to 23 in three extra-periods.

Shenango's slate is still clean in the county league race thanks to young Joe Tanner who flipped in the winning field goal in the final seconds of the third extra-session. The Raneymen played a bangup game.

The regular game ended 20-20. In the first extra-period both teams tallied three points. In the second extra-period either of the teams scored, and finally it was decided to play until one team won and Shenango was in the money when Tanner shot his famous field goal.

The Shenango high girls defeated the Mt. Jackson high team in the preliminary game.

Bridenbaughmen Eke Out
24-23 Victory In Dying
Moments At Lincoln Gym

Tuscano Stars For New Castle High; Cole Is
Brilliant For Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 12.—In a thrilling basketball game as anyone could hope to see, New Castle High School nosed out Ellwood City High 24-23 in the dying moments of the game last night at Lincoln gym.

The two evenly matched teams fought a close game throughout. The last quarter was replete with action and excitement as the lead switched hands often, and the score deadlocked several times. The locals displayed a remarkable degree of accuracy from the free line, accounting for 9 out of 13 free shots, against New Castle's 6 out of 20. The red and black outscored Ellwood from the court 9-7.

Ellwood jumped to a 6-4 lead in the opening period and added a point to this in the ensuing period when the score read 12-9 for Ellwood. It was early in the third quarter that the locals suffered a hard blow when Bill Cole, star forward, was ejected from the game because of four personal fouls. It was soon after this that the invaders launched an offensive that gave them 20-17 edge at the close of the third period.

At the resumption of rivalries in the final chapter the Benedictines soon made it known that the ball game was still doubtful. Kraynak, regular center was also taken out of the game early in this period via the same route as Cole. A foul by DeCaprio and a long shot by Tuscano gave the visitors a 3 point lead with about two minutes of play left. Luxenberg cut this down with a shot from mid-floor. Captain Robuck had two opportunities to tie and win the game but mis-fired on two foul shots. The crowd was frantic as Hughes made a shot from mid-floor to place Ellwood ahead 23-24.

Reserves Lose
In the preliminary game the Ellwood High Reserves lost a hard fought contest to the New Castle High Reserves by a 20-16 score. It was close throughout, and Small was the victor's chief threat. Pishoneri and Young were the best for the Ellwood Reserves.

Some Selling Features As Result Of Gold Clause Case Before Court

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Wall Street's fears over possible outcome of the gold clause case now before the United States supreme court brought fresh selling into the stock and commodity markets today as traders switched into the gold payment liberty and treasury bonds, which rose from 2-32 to 11-32.

The gold and silver shares which would be most directly affected by an adverse ruling by the court were comparatively inactive and suffered losses of less than a point. Cerrito De Pasco, United States Smelting, Alaska Juneau Dome and other favorites appeared on the tape infrequently.

Railroad shares were the weakest group. New York Central dropped more than a point to a new 1934-1935 low before meeting support. Wheat sold down half a cent a bushel while cotton lost about 25 cents a bale. This had an adverse effect on the farm implement and mail order shares where J. I. Case dropped more than a point, and Montgomery Ward, Deere & Co., and others suffered smaller losses. United States Steel receded easily for a loss of more than half a point as did Bethlehem. This imparted a heavy tone to the rest of the industrial group.

No Changes In Commodity Law

A. R. English, senator of weights and measures today stated he had received a letter from the bureau of standard weights and measures, at Harrisburg, in which C. J. P. Cullen, director said that no amendments have been adopted to the commodity law.

English inquired whether or not it is legal to sell farm products by the bushel instead of weight.

He said that as no amendment had been made to the commodity law the same weights per bushel are the same as heretofore.

"We know nothing of any ruling made by the department of agriculture as they have no authority to change weights of commodities," he said this must be done by act of the legislature.

BULLETIN
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Former Deputy Police Commissioner Joseph Faurot, father of the American fingerprinting system, today expressed a desire to examine the Lindbergh baby kidnapping ransom notes to determine if the defendant Bruno Hauptmann had handled them.

Faurot said through a new process of detection just developed old fingerprints left on paper could be detected.

The fingerprint authority expressed his desire while attending a conference of the commercial crime commission.

Robert Daru, chairman, said Albert S. Osborn, handwriting expert for the state at the trial of Hauptmann, would attend the conference this afternoon and that perhaps arrangements for such an examination could be made.

Osborn examined the ransom notes and testified they had been written by Hauptmann.

Guard Home Of Bank Executive After Kidnaping Threat Is Received

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Police today reinforced special guards at the Chestnut Hill home of Thomas P. Beal, president of the Second National Bank of Boston, following the disclosure that letters and telephone calls demanding $25,000 under penalty of kidnapping his six-year-old son, Thomas, Jr., had been received by the banker over a ten week period.

The police guard kept a watchful eye also on Judith, his 7-year-old daughter, and Mrs. Beal.

In each of the threats received by Beal, the extortionists said that unless the money was provided according to their instructions, Thomas, Jr., would be kidnapped "like the Lindbergh kid," police said.

The latest threat, received a few days ago said the kidnapping would be carried out shortly unless the money was forthcoming.

Young Woman Suffers Burns

Heroic Efforts Of Emmenton Salesman Saves Life Of Miss Laura Dudek, High Street

The heroic efforts of an Emmenton salesman probably saved the life of Miss Laura Dudek, aged 20, of 38 High street, who is in the New Castle hospital suffering with severe burns about the right hip and arm which she sustained Friday afternoon about three o'clock when her clothing caught on fire in the office of Dr. B. M. Mott of East Washington street, where she is employed.

Miss Dudek was at work near an open gas stove when her clothing caught fire. Mr. Crawford, of Emmenton, who happened to be in the office at the time, immediately rushed to the young woman's rescue and extinguished the fire. She was taken to the New Castle hospital, where the burns received treatment. The girl's condition today was described as fair. Mr. Crawford received minor burns about the hands while he was engaged in putting out the flames.

Grim View for Hauptmann

Beside the jail in Flemington, N. J., where Bruno Richard Hauptmann awaits outcome of his trial for kidnapping and murder, is a tombstone yard, and the rhythmic tattoo of the artisan carving stones is in Hauptmann's ears when he is in his cell. It even penetrates into the courtroom (to the right) while the trial is on. (Central Press).

WHITHER AWAY, PRETTY MAID?

Where are you going, my pretty maid? Does your fancy take you to southern climes or to lands of ice and snow for winter sports? Elong suggests the costume, right, for golfing, in case the south is your destination. A simple jacket, leaving plenty of freedom, and a divided skirt, is shown by him. For skiing, the suit, left, is his choice, with ski trousers and heavy, pullover sweaters. This suit consists of dark green trousers with dull orange sweater and sweater blouse.

Some Selling Features As Result Of Gold Clause Case Before Court

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Wall Street's fears over possible outcome of the gold clause case now before the United States supreme court brought fresh selling into the stock and commodity markets today as traders switched into the gold payment liberty and treasury bonds, which rose from 2-32 to 11-32.

The gold and silver shares which would be most directly affected by an adverse ruling by the court were comparatively inactive and suffered losses of less than a point. Cerro de Pasco, United States Smelting, Alaska Juneau Dome and other favorites appeared on the tape infrequently.

Railroad shares were the weakest group. New York Central dropped more than a point to a new 1934-1935 low before meeting support.

Wheat sold down half a cent a bushel while cotton lost about 25 cents a bale. This had an adverse effect on the farm implement and mail order shares where J. I. Case dropped more than a point, and Montgomery Ward, Deere & Co., and others suffered smaller losses.

United States Steel receded easily for a loss of more than half a point as did Bethlehem. This imparted a heavy tone to the rest of the industrial group.

Little Change In Market Prices

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Wall Street's fears over possible outcome of the gold clause case now before the United States supreme court brought fresh selling into the stock and commodity markets today as traders switched into the gold payment liberty and treasury bonds, which rose from 2-32 to 11-32.

The gold and silver shares which would be most directly affected by an adverse ruling by the court were comparatively inactive and suffered losses of less than a point. Cerro de Pasco, United States Smelting, Alaska Juneau Dome and other favorites appeared on the tape infrequently.

Railroad shares were the weakest group. New York Central dropped more than a point to a new 1934-1935 low before meeting support.

Wheat sold down half a cent a bushel while cotton lost about 25 cents a bale. This had an adverse effect on the farm implement and mail order shares where J. I. Case dropped more than a point, and Montgomery Ward, Deere & Co., and others suffered smaller losses.

United States Steel receded easily for a loss of more than half a point as did Bethlehem. This imparted a heavy tone to the rest of the industrial group.

New York Expert May Examine Notes In Hauptmann Case By New Process

BULLETIN
(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Former Deputy Police Commissioner Joseph Faurot, father of the American fingerprinting system, today expressed a desire to examine the Lindbergh baby kidnapping ransom notes to determine if the defendant Bruno Hauptmann had handled them.

White And Wimer Exchange Letters On Tax Refund

Wimer Wants Taxpayers To Get Refund For Good Behavior

WHITE SAYS MEASURE ENCOURAGES PEOPLE

Although Controller Earl Wimer has received from solicitor Robert White an opinion stating that the city can legally refund taxes to proprietors of dance halls and beer places in which dancing is held, the exchange of letters between the two city officials provides interesting reading.

Wimer's letter is as follows:

Wimer's Letter

"I wish to refer you to Council Bill No. 28, introduced by Mr. Mayne on December 3rd relative to the collection of a license fee in the amount of $1.00 for each dance held by proprietors of dance halls where alcoholic beverages or liquors are dispensed and ask, if in your opinion, the refund outlined in this bill is legal.

"It is not for me to define just what is a Dance Hall, Ball Room, or Dancing Academy as this has already been done by the Legislature. It is for me to determine who shall pay this license fee, but as Controller of the City of New Castle, I believe it is my duty to become interested in the disposition of such fees after they have become a part of the General Revenue of the City.

"It has been said that this license fee, at least in part, is for the purpose of reimbursing the City for the cost of certain work done by our police officers. The Ordinance states that if the proprietors of these so-called dance halls conduct their places of business in a lawful and orderly manner they will be given, at the end of each month, a refund of fees paid in by them up to 90 per cent, based on the number of calls for police service at their places of business. "If this procedure is in order, then, does it not follow that all tax payers of the City, also all holders of Mercantile licenses are entitled to this same refund each month, provided the services of the police department are not required at their homes, or at their places of business as they must as surely contribute to the maintenance of the police department, through the payment of taxes or through the purchase of Mercantile Licenses, as do the proprietors of these so-called dance halls.

"If the Council is of the opinion that the City should be reimbursed for EXTRA services on the part of our Police Department would it not be possible for them to enact an Ordinance setting forth some proper basis for determining the value of such extra service and charging same only against those who required this extra service as was done in the case of the American Baseball Club vs The City of Philadelphia, Vol. 312, Page 511 thereby eliminating the necessity of making refunds.

This Ordinance states that if the Council is of the opinion the proprietors of these establishments have conducted their business in a lawful and orderly manner they may refund up to 90 per cent, the fees paid to the City each month. We know our Councilmen are not going to spend their time checking these places and will make these refunds upon the recommendation of the Police Department which I consider an undesirable practice. In mentioning this, I want to do so without casting any reflection whatever upon our PRESENT Police Department whom I like to look upon as an honest and efficient body, but I ask you to visualize to what uses this Ordinance might be put at some future time when you and I and the present members of the Police Department have been replaced, we hope by better men, but at this time we know not whom.

"As the legal advisor of the City of New Castle I am appealing to you for a written, unbiased opinion upon the legality of that portion of this Ordinance regarding the refunding of the above mentioned license fees after they have become a part of the General Fund of the City.

White's Opinion

In reply the city solicitor prefaces his opinion by writing: "Of course it does seem rather superfluous to ask me my opinion of the legality of an ordinance I drew myself. You think that for some sinister or capricious reason I would let council pass an ordinance which I did not believe legal.

"The Third Class city code under an Act entitled 'Licenses' provides for mercantile tax which is a license for revenue purpose and then it makes provision for certain licenses under the police power of the state and among these is the license for dance hall.

White's letter said "It is well settled that the amount of an occupation tax imposed in the exercise of police power may include not only the cost of issuing a license but also a reasonable compensation for the expense of supervision over the licensed occupation.

"But, whenever it is manifest that the amount of such tax imposed in the exercise of police power is substantially in excess of the reasonable expense of issuing a license and of regulating the occupation to which it pertains, or is virtually prohibitory the act or ordinance imposing the tax is invalid."

White's letter said that since the advent of night clubs etc., a new condition has arisen and to require them to pay the license tax would be prohibitory. The act of assembly provides a fee of $15.00 for inspection and a $1.00 fee must be to cover the cost of police regulation.

In conclusion the solicitor said that the purpose of the ordinance sponsored by Mayor Mayne is to encourage persons to diminish as far as possible the cost of policing these places.

State Supreme Court Refuses To Grant Appeal From Lower Court Rulings

Seek To Speed RWD Projects

School Board Wants More Progress On Proposed RWD Jobs

WILL TAKE MATTER UP AT HARRISBURG

In an effort to expedite the proposed which are pending with the RWD, S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has been appointed by the New Castle school board to go to Harrisburg with RWD Resident Engineer James A. Close and see what can be done.

The action came Friday night at the board meeting when Director J. Herbert McIlvenny asked why the projects were not getting started any faster, particularly the lighting projects for the North street, Oak street and West Side schools.

S. G. Ligo explained that authorization had not yet been received, although the projects have been in for some weeks. "These projects are important to the schools," said Mr. McIlvenny. "By the expenditure of a relatively small sum of money for materials we will light these schools properly and save many times the investment in health and eyesight. I hope we can get authority for them shortly and believe it would be a good idea to send Mr. Ligo to Harrisburg to speed the authorization up."

At the same time the board authorized the advertising of bids for the materials necessary to the projects, the bids to be opened and let at a proper time following the authorization of the projects.

The lighting in the three schools has been bad for years. Other schools are listed for rewiring following the completion of these jobs.

Will Make Change In Lighting Plan

Taggart Stadium Line To Be Transferred To School Meters

Authority was granted Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds S. G. Ligo Friday night at the meeting of the school board to submit a project to the RWD which has for its purpose the transferring of the lighting arrangement of the Taggart stadium to the Benjamin Franklin school meters. Since the floodlights were installed at the field they have been handled as a separate account at the prescribed basic rate. If they are put over on to the school meters the wholesale rate of 1.6 per kilowatt hour will be in force.

The reason for the differential is that the school takes the power from the lines of the Pennsylvania Power company at 2200 volts and transforms it down through the school's own transformer. The company maintains a transformer at the field for the floodlights.

The work will necessitate the stringing of a cable from the school to the stadium, but S. G. Ligo told the board he has such a cable in stock. The labor will be furnished by the RWD.

J. H. McIlvenny brought the question up when he said that the athletic council had been paying the light bills of the football stadium when he thought the board should pay them. "The council is in the hole and we are going to have to make some adjustment," said McIlvenny. This was not definitely decided, and the board may yet decide to prorrate the bill to the athletic council for the current consumed at the field when the floodlights are on, about 275 kilowatts per night.

BOND POSTED

Boyles and Milson who recently took over the balance of the school property at the corner of North Jefferson and Grant streets posted a bond of $2000 with the school board Friday night guaranteeing proper use of the grounds during their tenancy.

White And Wimer Exchange Letters On Tax Refund

WHITE SAYS MEASURE ENCOURAGES PEOPLE

Although Controller Earl Wimer has received from solicitor Robert White an opinion stating that the city can legally refund taxes to proprietors of dance halls and beer places in which dancing is held, the exchange of letters between the two city officials provides interesting reading.

Wimer's letter is as follows:

"I wish to refer you to Council Bill No. 28, introduced by Mr. Mayne on December 3rd relative to the collection of a license fee in the amount of $1.00 for each dance held by proprietors of dance halls where alcoholic beverages or liquors are dispensed and ask, if in your opinion, the refunds outlined in this bill are legal.

"It is not for me to define just what is a Dance Hall, Ball Room, or Dancing Academy as this has already been done by the Legislature, nor is it for me to determine who shall pay this license fee, but as Controller of the City of New Castle, I believe it is my duty to become interested in the disposition of such fees after they have become a part of the General Revenue of the City.

"It has been said that this license fee, at least in part, is for the purpose of reimbursing the City for the cost of certain work done by our police officers. The Ordinance states that if the proprietors of these so-called dance halls conduct their places of business in a lawful and orderly manner they will be given, at the end of each month, a refund of fees paid in by them up to 90 per cent, based on the number of calls for police service at their places of business.

"If this procedure is in order, then, does it not follow that all taxpayers of the City, also all holders of Mercantile licenses are entitled to this same refund each month, provided the services of the police department are not required at their homes, or at their places of business as they must surely contribute to the maintenance of the police department, through the payment of taxes or through the purchase of Mercantile Licenses, as do the proprietors of these so-called dance halls.

"If the Council is of the opinion that the City should be reimbursed for EXTRA services on the part of our Police Department would it not be possible for them to enact an Ordinance setting forth some proper basis for determining the value of such extra service and charging same only against those who required this extra service as was done in the case of the American Baseball Club vs. The City of Philadelphia, Vol. 312 Page 311 thereby eliminating the necessity of making refunds.

"This Ordinance states that if the Council is of the opinion the proprietors of these establishments have conducted their business in a lawful and orderly manner they may refund up to 90 per cent, the fees paid to the City each month. We know our Councilmen are not going to spend their time checking these places and will make these refunds upon the recommendation of the Police Department which I consider an undesirable practice. In mentioning this, I want to do so without casting any reflection whatever upon our PRESIDENT Police Department whom I like to look upon as an honest and efficient body, but I ask you to visualize to what uses this Ordinance MIGHT be put at some future time when you and I and the present members of the Police Department have been replaced, we hope by better men, but at this time we know not whom.

"As the legal-advisor of the City of New Castle I am appealing to you for a written and unbiased opinion upon the legality of that portion of this Ordinance regarding the refunding of the above mentioned license fees after they have become a part of the General Fund of the City.

"White's Opinion
In reply the city solicitor prefaces his opinion by writing:
"Of course it does seem rather superlative to ask me my opinion of the legality of an ordinance I drew myself. You think that for some sinister or capricious reason I would let council pass an ordinance which I did not believe legal.

"The Third Class city code under an Act entitled 'Licenses' provides for mercantile tax which is a license for revenue purpose and then it makes provision for certain licenses under the police power of the state and among these is the license for dance hall.

White's letter said "It is well settled that the amount of an occupation tax imposed in the exercise of police power may include not only the cost of issuing a license but also a reasonable compensation for the expense of supervision over the licensed occupation.

"But, whenever it is manifest that the amount of such tax imposed in the exercise of police power is substantially in excess of the reasonable expense of issuing a license and of regulating the occupation to which it pertains, or is virtually prohibitory the act or ordinance imposing the tax is invalid."

White's letter said that since the advent of night clubs etc., a new condition has arisen and to require them to pay the license tax would be prohibitory. The act of assembly provides a fee of $15.00 for inspection and a $1.00 fee must be to cover the cost of police regulation.

In conclusion the solicitor said that the purpose of the ordinance, sponsored by Mayor Mayne as head of the police bureau, is to encourage persons to diminish as far as possible the cost of policing these places.

Seek To Speed RWD Projects

WILL TAKE MATTER UP AT HARRISBURG

In an effort to expedite the projects which are pending with the RWD, S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has been appointed by the New Castle school board to go to Harrisburg with RWD Resident Engineer James A. Close and see what can be done.

The action came Friday night at the board meeting when Director J. Herbert McIlvenny asked why the projects were not getting started any faster, particularly the lighting projects for the North street, Oak street and West Side schools.

S. G. Ligo explained that authorization had not yet been received, that the purpose of the ordinance, sponsored by Mayor Mayne as head of the police bureau, is to encourage persons to diminish as far as possible the cost of policing these places.

"By the expenditure of a relatively small sum of money for materials we will light these schools properly and save many times the investment in health and eyesight. I hope we can get authority for them shortly and believe it would be a good idea to send Mr. Ligo to Harrisburg to speed the authorization up."

At the same time the board authorized the advertising of bids for the materials necessary to the projects, the bids to be opened and let at a proper time following the authorization of the projects.

The lighting in the three schools has been had for years. Other schools are listed for rewiring following the completion of these jobs.

Will Make Change In Lighting Plan

Taggart Stadium Line To Be Transferred To School Meters

Authority was granted Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds S. G. Ligo Friday night at the meeting of the school board to submit a project to the RWD which has for its purpose the transferring of the lighting arrangements of the Taggart stadium to the Benjamin Franklin school meters. Since the floodlights were installed at the field they have been handled as a separate account at the prescribed basic rate. If they are put over on to the school meters the wholesale rate of 1.6 per kilowatt hour will be in force.

The reason for the differential is that the school takes the power from the lines of the Pennsylvania Power company at 2200 volts and transforms it down through the school's own transformer. The company maintains a transformer at the field for the floodlights.

The work will necessitate the stringing of a cable from the school to the stadium, but S. G. Ligo told the board he has such a cable in stock. The labor will be furnished by the RWD.

J. H. McIlvenny brought the question up when he said that the athletic council had been paying the light bills of the football stadium when he thought the board should pay them. "The council is in the hole and we are going to have to make some adjustment," said McIlvenny. That was not definitely decided, and the board may yet decide to prorate the bill to the athletic council for the current consumed at the field when the floodlights are on, about 275 kilowatts per night.

BOND POSTED

Boyles and Milson who recently took over the balance of the school property at the corner of North Jefferson and Grant streets posted a bond of $2000 with the school board Friday night guaranteeing proper use of the grounds during their tenancy.

Wimer Wants Taxpayers To Get Refund For Good Behavior

WHITE SAYS MEASURE ENCOURAGES PEOPLE

Although Controller Earl Wimer has received from solicitor Robert White an opinion stating that the city can legally refund taxes to proprietors of dance halls and beer places in which dancing is held, the exchange of letters between the two city officials provides interesting reading.

Wimer's letter is as follows:

Wimer's Letter

"I wish to refer you to Council Bill No. 28, introduced by Mr. Mayne on December 3rd relative to the collection of a license fee in the amount of $1.00 for each dance held by proprietors of dance halls where alcoholic beverages or liquors are dispensed and ask, if in your opinion, the refunds outlined in this bill are legal.

"It is not for me to define just what is a Dance Hall, Ball Room, or Dancing Academy as this has already been done by the Legislature, nor is it for me to determine who shall pay this license fee, but as Controller of the City of New Castle, I believe it is my duty to become interested in the disposition of such fees after they have become a part of the General Revenue of the City.

"It has been said that this license fee, at least in part, is for the purpose of reimbursing the City for the cost of certain work done by our police officers. The Ordinance states that if the proprietors of these so called dance halls conduct their places of business in a lawful and orderly manner they will be given, at the end of each month, a refund of fees paid in by them up to 90 per cent, based on the number of calls for police service at their places of business.

"If this procedure is in order, then, does it not follow that all taxpayers of the City, also all holders of Mercantile Licenses, are entitled to this same refund each month, provided the services of the police department are not required at their homes, or at their places of business as they must as surely contribute to the maintenance of the police department, through the payment of taxes or through the purchase of Mercantile Licenses, as do the proprietors of these so-called dance halls.

"If the Council is of the opinion that the City should be reimbursed for EXTRA services on the part of our Police Department would it not be possible for them to enact an Ordinance setting forth some proper basis for determining the value of such extra service and charging same only against those who required this extra service as was done in the case of the American Baseball Club vs The City of Philadelphia, Vol. 312, Page 311 thereby eliminating the necessity of making refunds.

This Ordinance states that if the Council is of the opinion the proprietors of these establishments have conducted their business in a lawful and orderly manner they may refund up to 90 per cent, the fees paid to the City each month. We know our Councilmen are not going to spend their time checking these places and will make these refunds upon the recommendation of the Police Department which I consider an undesirable practice. In mentioning this, I want to do so without casting any reflection whatever upon our PRESENT Police Department whom I like to look upon as an honest and efficient body, but I ask you to visualize to what uses this Ordinance MIGHT be put at some future time when you and I and the present members of the Police Department have been replaced, we hope by better men, but at this time we know not whom.

"As the legal advisor of the City of New Castle I am appealing to you for a written and unbiased opinion upon the legality of that portion of this Ordinance regarding the refunding of the above mentioned license fees after they have become a part of the General Fund of the City.

White's Opinion
In reply the city solicitor prefaces his opinion by writing: "Of course it does seem rather superlative to ask me my opinion of the legality of an ordinance I drew myself. You think that for some sinister or capricious reason I would let council pass an ordinance which I did not believe legal.

"The Third Class city code under an Act entitled 'Licenses' provides for mercantile tax which is a license for revenue purpose and then it makes provision for certain licenses under the police power of the state and among these is the license for dance hall.

White's letter said "It is well settled that the amount of an occupation tax imposed in the exercise of police power may include not only the cost of issuing a license but also a reasonable compensation for the expense of supervision over the licensed occupation.

"But, whenever it is manifest that the amount of such tax imposed in the exercise of police power is substantially in excess of the reasonable expense of issuing a license and of regulating the occupation to which it pertains, or is virtually prohibitory the act or ordinance imposing the tax is invalid."

White's letter said that since the advent of night clubs etc., a new condition has arisen and to require them to pay the license tax would be prohibitory. The act of assembly provides a fee of $15.00 for inspection and a $1.00 fee must be to cover the cost of police regulation.

In conclusion the solicitor said that the purpose of the ordinance, sponsored by Mayor Mayne as head of the police bureau, is to encourage persons to diminish as far as possible the cost of policing these places.

Seek To Speed RWD Projects

WILL TAKE MATTER UP AT HARRISBURG

In an effort to expedite the projects which are pending with the RWD, S. G. Ligo, superintendent of buildings and grounds, has been appointed by the New Castle school board to go to Harrisburg with RWD Resident Engineer James A. Close and see what can be done.

The action came Friday night at the board meeting when Director J. Herbert McIlvenny asked why the projects were not getting started any faster, particularly the lighting projects for the North street, Oak street and West Side schools.

S. G. Ligo explained that authorization had not yet been received, although the projects have been in for some weeks. "These projects are important to the schools," said Mr. McIlvenny. "By the expenditure of a relatively small sum of money for materials we will light these schools properly and save many times the investment in health and eyesight. I hope we can get authority for them shortly and believe it would be a good idea to send Mr. Ligo to Harrisburg to speed the authorization up."

At the same time the board authorized the advertising of bids for the materials necessary to the projects, the bids to be opened and let at a proper time following the authorization of the projects.

The lighting in the three schools has been bad for years. Other schools are listed for revamping following the completion of these jobs.

Will Make Change In Lighting Plan
Taggart Stadium Line To Be Transferred To School Meters

Authority was granted Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds S. G. Ligo Friday night at the meeting of the school board to submit a project to the RWD which has for its purpose the transferring of the lighting arrangements of the Taggart stadium to the Benjamin Franklin school meters. Since the floodlights were installed at a separate account at the prescribed basic rate. If they are put over on to the school meters the wholesale rate of 1.6 per kilowatt hour will be in force.

The reason for the differential is that the school takes the power from the lines of the Pennsylvania Power company at 2200 volts and transforms it down through the school's own transformer. The company maintains a transformer at the field for the floodlights. The work will necessitate the stringing of a cable from the school to the stadium, but S. G. Ligo told the board he has such a cable in stock. The labor will be furnished by the RWD.

J. H. McIlvenny brought the question up when he said that the athletic council had been paying the light bills of the football stadium when he thought the board should pay them. "The council is in the hole and we are going to have to make some adjustment," said McIlvenny. "This was not definitely decided, and the board may yet decide to prorate the bill to the athletic council for the current consumed at the field when the floodlights are on, about 275 kilowatts per night."

BOND POSTED
Boyles and Milson who recently took over the balance of the school property at the corner of North Jefferson and Grant streets posted a bond of $2000 with the school board Friday night guaranteeing proper use of the grounds during their tenancy.
